PHILADELPHIA, July 8.—(P)—Grandfather John McGowan was willing to trust the bank with his $4,200, he told police, but his grandson told him it "wasn't safe."

"I've got some inside information

it's going to fold up," McGowan said the grandson told him, so he drew out the money and put it in a bureau drawer.

When McGowan woke yesterday morning, both money and grandson were gone.

Today police, armed with a warrant on a charge of larceny, were hunting the grandson, John Scanlon, 19 years old.

BIM TURNS TABLES ON MOTHER-IN-LAW*Policeman Carroll Says Comic Hero Deserves Medal for Courage.

B. O. Carroll, Atlanta policeman, recognizes courage when he sees it, and he thinks it should not go unheralded or unsung.

Yesterday, he asked The Constitution to say that Uncle Bim Gump, famous uncle of the equally famous Gumps created by Sidney Smith, deserves a medal for putting Madam DeStrom in her place.

Readers of the comic—and who isn't—probably know that the madam, whose neck most married men have wanted to wring scores of times, is Bim's mother-in-law. She's getting hers now, and Carroll asserts he wants to be the first on a popular subscription to get Bim a "suitable medal."

Pirates Board Ship, Chain Crew And Flee in Fog With $32,000 Loot*Dread Ocean Marauders Raid Luxurious Gambling Barge Off California, Quickly Overpower Seamen—Getting $10,000 in Gems, $22,000 in Cash.

LONG BEACH, Cal., July 8.—(P)—Black-hooded pirates, carrying chains and leg irons to fasten their victims, today raided the luxurious gambling barge Monte Carlo, and escaped with loot estimated at $32,000 in cash and jewelry.

Ed Turner, owner of the barge, reported to officers that five men, wearing black silk stockings over their heads, swarmed aboard the boat during a dense fog and quickly chained 13 members of the crew.

The Monte Carlo is anchored about eight miles off the coast and the raid occurred at 4 a. m., after patrons had been taken ashore in launches. Turner said J. M. Keller, ship cashier, was forced to surrender the cash and jewelry. The boat owner estimated the plunder at $22,000 in cash and $10,000 in jewelry left by patrons as security.

The raiders, Turner reported, were heavily armed with revolvers and sawed-off shotguns.

"Stick 'em up and be quiet," the pirates commanded as they climbed aboard.

They swept past the unresisting deck crew and then placed leg irons and handcuffs on the bartenders and janitors at work in the barroom.

"We won't hurt you if you keep quiet," the pirate leader told Keller, who was at work with his wife, a bookkeeper, in the steel-walled counting room.

Forcing Mrs. Keller to lie on the floor, they made Keller keep his hands elevated while the safe was looted.

The Monte Carlo, a former seagoing liner about 400 feet long, is anchored far at sea to escape jurisdiction of Long Beach and California anti-gambling laws.

Under cover of darkness, the pirates approached the Monte Carlo in a fishing boat. Others remained in the boat while the five robbers went aboard.

After their escape the coast guard was notified, as the raid so far at sea made it an act of piracy.

Long Beach police were requested to guard likely landing places.

TOBACCO EXECUTIVE WEDS HIS SECRETARY*Ceremony Takes Place in London in Presence of Their Relatives.

LONDON, July 8.—(P)—A business office romance resulted in the marriage today of George Washington Hill, "million-dollar-a-year" American tobacco executive, and his secretary, Mary Barnes.

The 50-year-old president of the American Tobacco Company and Miss Barnes, 39, were wed in the Caxton hall register office with nine relatives and friends in attendance.

After the brief ceremony Hill gave his bride an affectionate kiss as they passed Buckingham palace in a taxicab en route to a downtown hotel.

The guests followed in other taxis to a champagne party at the hotel.

"I don't know our plans, but I can say I am darned happy," asserted the executive.

Mrs. Hill with difficulty controlled her emotion as they faced a barrage of cameras outside the registry office.

But she regained her composure when the couple left and they posed for more pictures before entering the hotel.

Among those attending the wedding were Hill's brother-in-law, Maurice Boyer, director of the Bank of France, and Mrs. Boyer, Hill's sister (Katharine); the bride's brother, Robert Barnes, and Hill's daughter by his first marriage, Miss Gertrude Hill.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 8.—(P)—Governor Bibb Graves today signed the O'Neal bill appropriating $35,000 for the past and future costs of the "Scottsboro case."

The measure was sponsored by Representative O'Neal, of Jackson county, who declared that it was unfair to place the heavy expense of the trial on his county when neither the defendant nor the two women alleged to have been attacked were residents of the county.

Under Alabama law, the costs of the trial were to be borne by Jackson county regardless of the change of venue under which the case was tried the last time in Morgan circuit court.

POLICE DROP TRIANGLE AS CAUSE OF SHOOTING*Grady Carson Held After Wounding of Estranged Wife and Mother.

The love triangle element claimed by H. Grady Carson, son of "Fiddlin' John" Carson, to have been the motive cause for his shooting of his estranged wife, Mrs. Rada Carson, and her mother, Mrs. Bernice Kent, 52, as they lay sleeping in their home at 687 Woodward avenue, S. E., early Monday morning in so far as police were concerned when they dismissed Frank Collins, 35, of 197 Savannah street, S. E., from custody.

Carson, who led police to a spot on the James L. Key golf course where they recovered the gun he is said to have admitted using in the shooting, declared he would plead the "unwritten law" as prompting the shooting which sent his attractive 30-year-old, red-headed wife to Georgia Baptist hospital in a serious condition with a bullet wound in the lung.

Mrs. Kent Dismissed.

Mrs. Kent was dismissed from the same hospital after receiving treatment for a fracture of the right arm, slight for a fracture of the right arm, slight for a fracture of the right arm, slight for a fracture of the right arm.

Collins was charged by Carson with having broken up his home. "I caused my wife and me to separate in May after we had been married four years," Carson declared. "I warned them and I left, when I heard they were together. I went to my wife's home and cut a screen from a back door and gained entrance. When I found Collins there I fired at him twice and he ran from the house."

Neighbors of Collins, however, informed police Collins had been at home all night and police pointed out that the other persons found in the room with his wife was Mrs. Kent. Mr. and Mrs. Felton Ewing, who occupy the other side of the duplex in which Mrs. Carson and her mother live, said they were the first to arrive after the shooting and they told police they had seen no one leave the house.

Accusations Groundless.

At Georgia Baptist hospital, Mrs. Carson declared her husband's accusations in regard to her relations with Collins were groundless and the shooting was the result of jealous rage.

"I have not seen Collins since my husband and I were separated," she told police, "until this morning when he came to the hospital to inquire about what had happened."

Carson was arrested at the Carson home at 648 Fair street, S. E. He told Patrolmen W. F. Jones and W. S. Acree, arresting officers, that he had been waiting for them to take him into custody and he readily led them to the spot where he had thrown the gun said to have been used in the shooting. Police reported the weapon contained four discharged shells.

RESERVE OFFICERS NAME APPOINTEES

Staff Members, Committee Members Named at First Council Meeting.

The Georgia department of the Reserve Officers' Association held its first council meeting of the year in the 325th infantry amphitheater camp at Fort McPherson Sunday.

New appointments to the state department staff and the standing committees were announced by Colonel William M. Wilder, commanding officer of the 325th infantry, now on active duty at the fort. The council also made plans for a greater number of officers in the state department of the reserve officers' association, it was said.

Officers appointed to the staff are: First Lieutenant John R. Large, 325th infantry, of Albany, secretary; and First Lieutenant Benjamin J. Merritt, 325th infantry, of Macon, treasurer. ## PAYMENTS FOR WHEAT ARE SET BY WALLACE

Cotton Acreage Set at 29,166,000 Acres for Year, a Gain Over 1934 Total.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—(AP)—A proclamation fixing the minimum 1935 wheat benefit payments at 33 cents a bushel was signed by Secretary Wallace today shortly after the Agriculture Department reported an acreage increase in another crop on which it operates a control plan—cotton.

The department reported that on July 1 cotton acreage in cultivation totaled 29,166,000 acres, an increase of 4.6 per cent over last year.

The wheat payments on this year's crop will be an increase of at least four cents a bushel over the 1934 minimum of 29 cents. The A.A.A. said this should mean an additional income to producers of approximately $14,000,000.

The AAA estimated that benefit payments to wheat farmers at the 33 cent rate on the 1935 crop should amount to at least $115,000,000, compared to approximately $100,000,000 which would have been paid at the 29 cent rate. The rate of payment on the first program in 1933 was 28 cents.

No change was made in the processing tax rate of 30 cents a bushel. The AAA said the money for the increased payments was obtained through tax collections on wheat produced by farmers not under allotment contracts, and that sufficient funds now are available to meet the increase.

The 1935 payments, the AAA said, will be made in two installments. The first will be at the rate of 20 cents a bushel on allotments. The final payment will be made when local administrative costs for the 1935-36 fiscal year have been determined and deductions made. Officials said it might be increased above 13 cents if the difference between the average farm price and wheat parity price for the current marketing year is more than 33 cents a bushel.

bility of an Italo-Ethiopian war and actively engaged the Ethiopians with France in an effort to find a compromise.

No steps beyond those of a preliminary phase have been discussed. An indication that the British in British negotiation with Rome has been closed was the revelation that Sir Eric Drummond, ambassador to Italy, has been in touch with Fulvio Surich, undersecretary for foreign affairs, there.

Britain, however, has not approached Premier Mussolini directly again after his rejection of the Capote Anthony Eden's tentative proposal for England to give Ethiopia a seaport, enabling her to make concessions to Italy to call a halt.

Dr. Joseph A. C. Aron, secretary general of the League of Nations, will confer here tomorrow with Eden and Sir Samuel Hoare, foreign secretary, on the Ethiopian question. An important decision for presentation to the cabinet may be reached then.

Despite anti-British attacks in the French press, there were indications London has not yet given up hope that the French will co-operate and try to avert a war. A statement on British plans is expected from Hoare Thursday by the house of commons. British officials are only interested in the American viewpoint but refrained from comment on Washington's refusal to invoke the Briand-Kellogg treaty at Ethiopia's request.

Despite American recommendation for withdrawal of nationals from Ethiopia, the British government apparently does not yet regard the situation as critical enough to take similar action.

It was pointed out the situation is different in that the bulk of Americans are scattered in the up country, while most Britons are concentrated in Addis Ababa and could be withdrawn quickly if necessary.

PEACE PARLEY COLLAPSE FORESEEN BY TODAY

SCHENINGEN, The Netherlands, July 8.—(AP)—Prediction was made today that the peace parley commission meeting here in an effort to settle the Italo-Ethiopian dispute would collapse tomorrow. Its end was foreseen in the refusal of the Italian members to hear witnesses for Ethiopia.

At this afternoon's meeting an effort to break the deadlock which began yesterday ended in failure. It was reported an angry scene developed when Professor Jose, legal advisor to the Ethiopian government, declared that the Italian members to hear witnesses for Ethiopia.

The Italian members promptly registered a fiery protest, insisting the commission was empowered to consider only the causes of the incidents, not the delimitation of the frontier. They refused to hear further evidence from Professor Jose, although he continued serenely to expound his views until the session ended.

The Italo-Ethiopian commission of conciliation and arbitration, instructed by the League of Nations council, set to consider the evidence in the dispute and reach a decision to be reported to the League August 25. Each side has two representatives, with a fifth to be selected to aid in the decision.

SLAIN BARKERS' BODIES ARE STILL IN FLORIDA

OCALA, Fla., July 8.—(AP)—Although nearly six months have passed since Fred and "Ma" Barker, of the notorious Barker-Karpis gang of kidnapers and bank robbers, were shot down at Oklawaha, in a battle with federal agents, their bodies are still in an undertaking establishment here. Shortly after the killing of Fred and "Ma" their bodies were claimed by the father, George Barker, of Carthage, Mo., but instructions have never been given for the disposition of the bodies. It was said at the undertaking establishment today.

Instructions for disposition of the bodies, it was learned, have been withheld pending a final settlement of the estates of Fred and "Ma" Barker.

TORREYA STATE PARK ACQUIRED BY FLORIDA

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., July 8.—(AP)—C. M. Schaeffer, acting state park director, today announced the state board of forestry had approved acquisition of the Torreya state park by the Florida park service.

The new park tract is located in the Apalachicola river valley near Rock Bluff, in Liberty and Gadsden counties. It was donated by owners and citizens at no cost to the state.

The park was obtained, Schaeffer said, as the famous Torreya tree, found only in that area, could be preserved.

ent were workers in the state office of the FERA and the WPA.

Names of all breadwinners on the rolls of the FERA on May 31 have been turned over to the National Re-employment Office, and from this list will be taken the names of workers to be employed on the SSI works projects.

Miss Shepperson addressed the group, announcing that all applications for new projects must be filed with the district administrators and approved by them before being sent to headquarters here. The projects, if passed by Miss Shepperson and R. L. MacDougall, state WPA engineer, will then be sent to Washington for final approval.

Mr. McConnell informed the district administrators that while President Roosevelt wants every able bodied man on the relief rolls put to work he would much rather have them employed in private industry than on works projects. For that reason, he said, an intensive campaign to obtain jobs in private employ for those on the NRO register is being launched.

"Workers accepting private employment will not lose their status as far as works projects jobs are concerned," he said. "In other words, if a man accepts a temporary job lasting only a few weeks he can return to the NRO and get work on a works project after the temporary job has ceased."

Course, it is our desire to obtain permanent positions for these people and we will make every effort to do so.

Miss Shepperson and Mr. MacDougall outlined the objectives of the WPA and the former then instructed the district administrators to return to their headquarters and launch the program that will put Georgia's 70,000 jobless to work within the next six weeks.

RICHETTI BATTERS HEAD, PLACED IN PADDED CELL

KANSAS CITY, July 8.—(AP)—Adam Richetti, condemned former partner of "Pretty Boy" Floyd, southwestern desperado, was confined in a padded cell for a short time today after he had injured himself slightly in the Jackson county jail, where he is awaiting execution.

Richetti, sentenced to death after his conviction of murder in the slaying of five men at the Union station plaza here two years ago, fell several times from his bunk to the concrete floor of his cell. Jailers said he also battered his head against the floor and cell bars, inflicting wounds.

He told a physician he had been suffering from a stomach ailment.

hand car with the $125 which Hopkins paid for Lorene, it was said. The 35-year-old groom and the 11-year-old bride took a short honeymoon trip in the car after the wedding and settled down to live in Chattanooga.

A month after the marriage Hopkins left and John Carroll and his wife and daughter came to Atlanta in the automobile bought with bride money. Soon, however, Hopkins came here and wanted Lorene to go back with him. She refused but her stepmother and father threatened her with physical violence and death if she did not comply with their wishes. The child had no recourse and she went with Hopkins to Chattanooga, where she said they lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Wilson.

Life was unbearable for Lorene and she ran away. She hitch-hiked from Tennessee to Atlanta and went to her stepmother's home on Capitol avenue, where she was taken in.

Forced to Have "Date." For a time things went on smoothly enough, until one night Mrs. Carroll forced Lorene to have a "date" with a man who took her to a hotel here. Judge Watkins said the child told him her stepmother helped to disrobe her.

On another occasion the same experience was again forced upon the child.

It was after this she sought aid from Miss Lottie Ramspeck, Fulton probation officer, in June of this year. The probation officer promptly took charge of the little girl and found her a home until the case could be considered by Judge Watkins.

Chattanooga authorities were notified and investigated the circumstances. They questioned the husband and his family but so far have discovered little.

Hopkins is said to have told the Chattanooga welfare workers he would be willing to "take Lorene back if she promises not to make any more trouble with the law."

Begged for Chance. Yesterday Lorene, the child bride, stood before the juvenile court judge and begged for a chance.

She wants to be educated and to live a decent, moral life. The child is far advanced in her outlook on life considering the sordid events of her short career and the unwholesome influences to which she has been subjected.

Lorene had been promoted from the fourth to the fifth grade in a Chattanooga school when the "bargain" marriage interrupted her education.

As a ward of the court, she will be taken care of until she is 21. She will attend school and will have every advantage possible for the county and state to give her.

Judge Watkins said Lorene is a good girl at heart and will undoubtedly make the most of the opportunity which is being presented her.

Indictments against the child's stepmother will be sought by the solicitor's office, charging the woman with forcing the girl to immoral acts.

Her husband and her father are in Chattanooga, the judge said.

noon is slated to discuss plans for attempting to raise $62,000 asked by WPA for $698.00 worth of improvements to Candler field, schools, Grady hospital and other municipal institutions.

Solicitor Holds Murder Theory In Death of Nicholas Neely Here

New Evidence Discovered After Coroner's Jury Returns Suicide Verdict in Case of Body Found July 4 in Maddox Park by Picknickers.

Belief that Nicholas Neely, Techwood project worker, was murdered and did not commit suicide was expressed yesterday by Assistant Solicitor-General John Hudson, after an investigation which revealed evidence which was not brought out at the coroner's inquest.

Neely's badly decomposed body was found on the morning of July 4 in Maddox park, crumpled over a shotgun which had a discharged shell in the breach.

Hudson and Baxter Coker, solicitor's investigator, found a two-foot iron bar six feet from the spot where Neely's body had lain. They also discovered a number of pieces of skull there.

Hudson said that Neely possibly had been beaten to death with the bar and the circumstances made it look as though he had shot himself with the gun.

A relative of the dead man told the officers that he believed Neely was murdered.

Coroner Paul Donehue will be requested to reconvene his jury to consider the new evidence, Hudson asserted.

Donehue said his verdict had been that the death wound had been self-inflicted, either accidentally or with suicidal intent. The gun found under the man had been owned by him for 30 years. The coroner declared that no shots were found in the man's flesh around the neck but that the body was in bad condition. Neely had been dead at least 60 hours when a party of picnickers, bound on a day of celebration, stumbled upon the corpse.

Photographs were taken of the scene by John Winn and Marion Riley, of the identification bureau of county police.

dies the funds through counties and cities.

The federal and county-city plan, understood to have been under consideration to eliminate Talmadge's board, brought brisk protests from George Cox and other Georgians, who declared the federal money should be used only through the board.

MacDonald Writes Cox. MacDonald's letter to Cox gave indirect assurance no action was contemplated which would conflict with "laws and the dignity of the people of Georgia." The federal road chief told George the bureau was making no attempt to extend its authority beyond the law and has adopted no attitude or requirement in Georgia that is not applied in its operation in all of the states.

Attorney-General Cummings has made a thorough study of the legality of the proposed highway regulations and made some changes in phraseology.

It was expected one regulation will give Secretary Wallace, as head of the state road building organization, and where he decides the state engineering organization is inadequate to deal with recognized officials of counties and cities in building roads.

Governor Talmadge had "no comment" on the letter of Director Thomas H. MacDonald, of the Federal Bureau of Public Roads, to Congressman E. E. Cox yesterday and Chairman W. E. Wilburn had little more to say.

Mr. Wilburn reiterated his previously declared statement that the federal bureau was trying to dictate to the Highway Department.

He added that he did not see where the MacDonald letter changed the situation any.

Brazil Man and Wife Parents of 29 Children

SANTOS, Brazil, July 8.—(AP)—Praxedes Abreu Pinto, 54, and his 50-year-old wife, Donna Adelaide, have brought into the world 29 children of whom four are dead.

It is their hope to have "thirty live and healthy children."

When reporters called at the little Pinto grocery store, the parents were at first abashed. Then the father opened the conversation saying, "I suppose we might as well confess we are parents of 29 offspring. . . . We think our vast country needs people."

Official statistics gave Brazil today about 12 people for each of its 3,285,319 square miles. In the United States there are about 41 people to every one of the country's 3,026,789 square miles.

to expend more than $4.50 for every $1 we are asked to put up for this emergency work. We cannot afford to bicker in this instance, and I am confident that the mayor and council of the city of Atlanta will rise to the emergency and do the best thing for the common good of this city and its citizens.

Suits Now Pending. "If we fail to vote these bonds, we have only one other alternative—the levy of an emergency tax. That is sure to come because of the suits now pending and which have not been prosecuted because of the representations of city officials that we will do everything possible to remedy the intolerable condition caused by the dumping of tons of untreated sewage into streams in and near the city."

Of the $1,500,000 bond issue proposed, $1,000,000 is for sanitary sewer improvements and $500,000 for storm water modernization.

Key asserted he believes that just as representative a vote can be obtained on August 21 as in September.

"The sooner the election, the better," he said. "This is something which we cannot deny further."

Hansell also concurred with a statement that the "time is ripe if it ever will be to make the improvements, which justice and common sense tell us we must make."

"I think August 21 would be the best time to hold the election," he said. "It certainly cannot hurt us to hold it at that time. I doubt that a later election would aid the bonds any more than an election called August 21."

The finance committee this afternoon is slated to discuss plans for attempting to raise $62,000 asked by WPA for $698.00 worth of improvements to Candler field, schools, Grady hospital and other municipal institutions.

GRAND JURY TO START PROBE OF 'PARASITES'

Entire Body Slated To Join Investigation of Fulton County Affairs.

Investigation of Commissioner George F. Longino's charges that there is waste and extravagance in county affairs probably will be started this morning by the July-August term of the Fulton grand jury which meets at 10 o'clock.

Comparative lists of salaries and employees of this year and last year were being prepared yesterday afternoon for Commissioner Longino by Frank Fling, clerk of the county commission, and were expected to be presented to the grand jury for consideration today.

The probe of spending and "parasitic" employees on the county pay roll was demanded last week by Longino at the regular meeting of the board of commissioners, when he charged the majority faction is wrecking the financial standing of Fulton county by its extravagance and waste.

Resolution Passed.

Longino demanded that the board pass a resolution requesting that the investigation be made, after Dr. C. R. Adams, chairman, had demanded that Longino furnish the names of employees he called "parasites."

George W. McCarty, foreman of the current grand jury, said yesterday that he has been out of the city since

Emory Man Re-Enters Art Students' League

Albert Sumner Kelley, winner of three art scholarships since his graduation by Emory University in 1930, has just registered at the Art Students' League, of New York, for study under Kimon Nicolaides, it was announced yesterday.

Mr. Kelley won a scholarship to the Arts Students' League, of New York, in 1933. He was one of 25 winners in a metropolitan scholarship competition in which 1,000 artists competed. At that time he already had won scholarships at the Ringling School of Art and the George Pease Ennis School of Painting.

While at Emory Mr. Kelley was president of the glee club during his senior year, a member of the K. A. social fraternity and art editor of the Campus, student annual publication. He has been "model monitor" at the Art League for one year, placing all models in the 36 classes for instruction.

Last week but that he thinks the entire body will look into the drastic charges which Longino has made.

The grand jury was requested by the board to appoint a committee for the investigation but both the foreman and the secretary say they believe the entire jury will work on the matter.

Unnecessary Employees.

The March-April grand jury pointed out 39 employees of the county who were termed "unnecessary," and it was these that Longino called "parasites."

The May-June jury returned no presentments at all because no action had been taken on the presentments of the previous jury and on the recommendations of other juries.

Longino said he had requested that the county commission meet to give proper consideration to the March-April jury recommendations but that Chairman Adams did not call a meeting at all, after promising to do so. Last week Dr. Adams said he could not remember ever having made such a promise.

This morning it is probable that Longino will present to the jury a list of employees and the salaries they were receiving a year ago, and another list of present employees and their salaries now. He also asked Fling to give him the names of all new employees (Longino said a "young army" had been added to the pay roll in the last few months) and whether or not they succeeded other employees or were given created jobs.

The office staff of Fling worked Saturday and yesterday compiling this data and it was to be delivered to Longino at the completion—in time for the jury meeting this morning.

HOUSE LIBERALIZATION SOUGHT FOR TVA BILL

Compromise Measure Greeted on Floor With Much Recrimination.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—(P)—Opposition charges that TVA sought "unreasonable" and unconstitutional powers today started a compromise Tennessee Valley authority bill on a thorny road toward a house vote.

Friends of President Roosevelt's power yardstick project predicted they would liberalize the measure which was brought to the floor in a form distasteful to the White House. Involved in a test of the President's power, particularly in view of the house overthrow of his wishes on the utility bill.

The weight of Chairman McSwain, South Carolina democrat, nevertheless, was put squarely behind the compromise bill which his military committee wrote after weeks of bitter fighting.

He said, moreover, he would oppose as unconstitutional some of the provisions the administration wants inserted in the bill, particularly one to give TVA the right to buy up utilities systems and sell them to communities desiring a public source of power.

Scarcely a friendly word for TVA was heard in the first few hours of debate. Republicans said even the restrictive compromise was too much, while a number of democrats united in contending the TVA legislation desired by the administration was too broad.

A group of liberals had yet to be heard, however. Their leaders met secretly during the day and decided to back amendments to restore to the compromise plan some of the features the administration sought, and to chop out others which it does not want.

LOT ON IVY STREET ACQUIRED BY HOTEL

Hampton Owners Buy Property With View of Enlarging Hostelry.

Sale of the property at 104 Ivy street, adjoining the Hampton hotel, to Wade H. and Wilmer C. Davis, owners of the hotel, was announced yesterday by Ward White & Company, real estate brokers.

The purchase price was not disclosed, but the property, which is now used for an automobile parking lot and gasoline filling station, has an assessed valuation for taxing purposes of $17,500.

The Davis brothers admitted that they purchased the property with a view to erecting an addition to the Hampton hotel, but said they had not definitely decided when the addition would be built. The Hampton hotel is a 100-room structure, fronting on Houston street.

The 104 Ivy street property has a frontage of 50 feet on Ivy street and is 200 feet deep. Its purchase gives the hotel owners possession of a considerable frontage on Ivy street.

The property was sold to the Davis interests by Mrs. Minnie S. Massell.

Vagabonds of Greenwich Village In Throes of Electing Own Mayor

Apathy Disappears When Improvident Artists Learn Post Carries Salary; Don't Want Official Under a Table Every Night.

NEW YORK, July 8.—(P)—Greenwich Village—haven for irresponsible lads and irrepressible lassies and other precariously artistic—today was in a dither of seriousness.

The villagers are done with hiding their civic light under skylights. Now is the time, they have decided, for all good villagers to have a party and elect their first mayor.

The drafted candidates' jeers have turned to cheers.

The reason—the mayor will get a salary.

A box will be set up in the Vagabonds' Club and the villagers are supposed to drop in donations. The mayor will be the only one who can deliver into the box.

Those who have tossed their berets into the ring include:

Maxwell Bodenheim, poet and novelist, whose platform is "all pretty girls must dance."

Eli Greifer, author of "Rhymes for the Wretched," who will campaign on the title of his forthcoming book of poetry, "Lyrics for the Lovelorn."

"Prince" Child De Rohan D'Harcourt, whose "title" dates to his birthplace in Guthrie, Okla., and whose

CITY'S STRAY DOGS GET LEASE ON LIFE

Judge Dorsey Postpones Hearing on Order Barring Shooting by Police.

Judge Hugh M. Dorsey gave Atlanta's stray and unlicensed dogs at least another week of life yesterday when he postponed a hearing on a temporary injunction restraining police from shooting dogs on sight.

The injunction, granted Walter Jennings last week and set to be heard yesterday in Fulton superior court, names Chief T. O. Sturdivant specifically and due to the chief's absence from the city will not come up until next Monday morning.

Jennings obtained the restraining order while police were in the midst of a drastic war against stray and unlicensed dogs in an effort to wipe out hydrophobia in the city. A number of persons have been bitten by mad dogs recently and one child died of rabies.

The restraining order against Chief Sturdivant, which put a sudden stop to the indiscriminate slaying of the canines found running loose, pointed out that dogs shall be impounded for five days before being killed. Jennings said with policemen shooting down every dog they saw, he feared for his own licensed pets.

Body of Woman Found.

NASHVILLE, July 8.—(P)—The nude and partly decomposed body of a woman was found today in the basement of a house after the City Health Department had been asked by a resident to investigate a strange odor. The body was partly covered by ashes, brick and rocks. There was no sign of clothing.

FLORIDA STARTS WAR AGAINST BOOTLEGGERS

Five Arrests Already Made, Declares J. A. Cormier, Director in State.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., July 8.—(P)—The start of a vigorous campaign against bootleggers in Florida was announced today by J. A. Cormier, director of the state beverage department.

"We're going after the bootleggers with every resource at our command," Cormier said. "We're going to bring prosecutions under the state revenue law, which provides penalties for selling liquor without a license and for selling it without first paying the state excise tax."

Five arrests, Cormier said, already have been made.

"We're going after the bootleggers with every resource at our command," Cormier said. "We're going to bring prosecutions under the state revenue law, which provides penalties for selling liquor without a license and for selling it without first paying the state excise tax."

CITY SCHOOL BOARD TO STUDY WPA FUND

Atlanta's board of education today will study means of acquiring $31,530 as its share of school improvements for which WPA has allocated $20,150. The board's regular monthly session is slated to begin at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Consideration of reversion to state-adopted textbook lists for future book purchases made by the Atlanta school system also probably will be considered.

DEPUTY GOES TO OHIO TO RETURN NEGRO HERE

Louis F. Crawford, former United States marshal, who is now special agent of the board of county commissioners, left yesterday for Cincinnati, Ohio, to return a negro prisoner wanted here on a murder charge.

Crawford is to bring back Elmer Luke, who is charged with shooting Tom Mims, negro, in July last year. Extradition papers have been prepared for presentation in Ohio. Crawford was mentioned indirectly last Wednesday by County Commissioner George F. Longino Jr., in his charge that waste and extravagance in county affairs administered by the majority faction of the board have brought many "parasites" to the payroll of Fulton county.

Woman Still Unconscious In Child 'Mercy' Slaying

KALAMAZOO, Mich., July 8.—(P)—A police guard stood over Mrs. Paul L. Tubbs in a hospital today, waiting for her to regain consciousness after causing the asphyxiation, they said, of her 9-year-old abnormal son and trying to commit suicide.

The woman had been unconscious ever since she was found in her house Saturday, clapping the body of the boy, Jess. The doors and windows of the house were closed and all of the gas jets in the kitchen had been opened.

The police described the tragedy as a "mercy" slaying and attempted suicide. They said they would wait the woman's possible recovery—hospital attendants gave her an even chance to live—before deciding whether to take action against her.

DEPUTY CHOSEN

A. R. Wright Named to Insurance Commission Post.

Comptroller General William B. Harrison yesterday announced the appointment of A. R. Wright, son of the late General William A. Wright, as chief deputy insurance commissioner for the state.

Mr. Wright will succeed L. A. Irons, who has resigned to enter the insurance business. Mr. Harrison is ex-officio insurance commissioner.

The new deputy has been connected with Mr. Harrison's office for some time. Prior to his state appointment he was in the insurance business. General Wright, his father, was comptroller general of the state for more than 50 years prior to his death in 1920.

Bruno 'Has Alibi' for Night of Crime, She Says.

LOS ANGELES, July 8.—(UP)—Evidence in the Lindbergh kidnap case which "would have saved Bruno Richard Hauptmann from conviction" was blocked in court due to "neglect and failure of his lawyers," Mrs. Emma Gloeckner, Hauptmann's sister, told the United Press tonight.

Rabbit Chased by Dog, Disguises Self With Hay

MOUND RIDGE, Kan., July 8.—(AP)—A rabbit for all that he might disguise himself as a bundle of wheat straw.

D. O. Rupp, farmer, tells that a rabbit, chased by a dog, ran into his wheat binder and came out unharmed, wrapped in a bundle of straw. The rabbit wouldn't let well enough alone, though, and tried to run away, whereupon the dog pounced upon it.

son of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh. Mrs. Gloeckner set forth for the first time the basis on which she will seek a review of the case before higher courts, if Bruno's present appeal fails.

She has retained Vincent A. Marco, Hollywood attorney, to present "new evidence" which she claims will save her brother from the chair.

Her charges in brief are: Evidence proving Hauptmann was not in Hopewell, N. J., the night of the kidnaping, and evidence indicating the body found on Sourland mountain was not the body of the Lindbergh child, was known to Bruno's lawyers.

This evidence, although agreed on among the attorneys, was not disclosed, and in the case of the identification of the baby, was stipulated in court against Hauptmann's wishes.

Through "negligence of the lawyers" facts were suppressed which had a direct bearing on the guilt or innocence of Hauptmann.

Mrs. Gloeckner said "after my brother's trial, I went to New Jersey and we talked about certain things which did not come out in the trial."

She said she had been advised by C. Lloyd Fisher, Hauptmann's attorney, that "all the defense lawyers agreed the child found was not the Lindbergh baby, but when this came up in court, Mr. Reilly (Edward J. Reilly, then chief defense counsel) stood up and said the defense would stipulate it was the Lindbergh baby."

"The other lawyers walked out of court. Why didn't they tell the judge that was not the wish of my brother or the other lawyers?"

"When these lawyers came before the New Jersey supreme court, they were asked why they did not raise objections to these things, and the answer was: 'Mr. Reilly was chief counsel. What do they mean by that? Were they not there to protect my brother's interests?'"

"POWER TRUST" IS HIT
IN SERIOUS CHARGE

Over the $150,000 suggested to cover its cost.

Rankin, drawing, ranky Mississippi, who led the cloakroom fight for the President's mandatory abolition clause in the utility bill, drew a quick retort today with his renewed charge that congressional telephone wires had been tapped.

Thinks Rankin "Jesting."

Philip H. Gadsden, chairman of the committee of public utility executives, said in a statement that he believed Rankin's first charge "unfortunate as it was, was made in jest."

"By repeating that accusation today, Mr. Rankin apparently is beginning to believe his own statement," Gadsden said. "Repetition of a false statement cannot make a truth out of it—and can be inspired only by maliciousness. The committee of public utility executives welcomes an investigation of this latest charge to demonstrate that it is as false and absurd as other statements made by Mr. Rankin in sponsoring the Wheeler-Rayburn (utility) bill."

In his formal statement Rankin asked that all members of both the house and senate be called before the projected senate investigating committee and required to "give an accounting."

TAX-WEALTHY RETURN IS SET AT $901,500,000

produce anything from $7,000,000 to $728,000,000; those on "large" individual incomes $5,000,000 to $32,500,000; those on corporation incomes from $67,000,000 to $102,000,000.

Furthermore, he asserted the idea of taxing dividends received by one corporation from another would produce about $39,000,000.

The schedules thus outlined followed closely recommendations made by the president in his message to congress in which he expounded the philosophy that mass rather than individual efforts created big fortunes and suggested taxes to bring a "wider distribution of wealth."

"Emergency Passed."

Morgenthau, however, ran into a barrage of questions from republicans when he read from his prepared statement:

"There are times of emergency when the treasury must finance expenditures in excess of income by borrowings which increase the public debt. But the national welfare demands that, when such an emergency has passed, sufficient income be raised to meet current expenditures and to make substantial reductions in the debt."

"The time has now come to move in this direction. It would, of course, be unwise to impose tax burdens which would retard recovery. But it would be equally unwise not to call on sources of revenue which would reduce our borrowings and later reduce the national debt without interfering with recovery."

Immediately after he finished reading this statement, up popped half a dozen republicans with questions about "budget balancing." Representative Jenkins, republican, Ohio, asserted the country should not be given the impression that the new taxes would balance the budget when that was not the case.

Demands Specific Figure.

Representative Woodruff, republican, Michigan, attempted to make Morgenthau to task for not asserting that the committee should raise a specific amount of money. He insisted that the treasury should make specific suggestions which "at least would start us on the road to solvency."

At the while the democrats, too, were throwing political jobs. For instance, Morgenthau was hesitating with an answer as to why he made no specific recommendations when Chairman Doughton, democrat, North Carolina, interposed that the President is not trying to make a "rubber stamp of congress."

With Morgenthau excused after 45 minutes, the committee heard L. H. Parker, chief of staff of the joint congressional committee on internal revenue. He gave detailed analyses of existing tax rates and returns.

At one point he drew the particular attention of committee members when he said he thought it would "help materially" if 12 percent of the income tax were paid for the payment of inheritance taxes.

Some committee members had expressed fears that immediate collection of big inheritance taxes might throw thousands out of work by forcing liquidation of big fortunes such as that of Henry Ford.

BOWMAN GRAY BURIED IN CEREMONIES AT SEA

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., July 8.—(AP)—Relatives of Bowman Gray, 61, millionaire chairman of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company's board of directors, tonight awaited word that he had been buried at sea as he requested prior to his death Sunday, aboard the motorship Kungholm off North Cape.

James Gray, a brother, received a radiogram today advising, according to the dead man's wish, funeral services would be held aboard the vessel tonight.

Communication with the vessel was via London, and was sketchy.

Gray, whose holdings in the Reynolds Company alone were valued according to federal reports and stock prices, at approximately $12,000,000, was a member of the Reynolds, Hanes, Gray business triumvirate which has been such an important factor in the development of Winston-Salem.

conferred upon me by the constitution and laws of this state, do hereby grant unto the said Sam Deane a full and complete pardon and I do authorize and direct you, upon receipt of these presents, to take notice and be governed accordingly."

Governor Conner, absent in Biloxi, Miss., confirmed the announcement of the pardon by his office in Jackson, Mississippi, was rocked in August, 1933, when Dr. Deane was arrested and charged with the murder of Dr. Kennedy.

Her trial of five weeks—one of the longest on record in the state—based the alleged intimacies of the two physicians. Hundreds of love letters were read.

The state contended Dr. Deane and Dr. Kennedy met in their children's clinic at Greenwood on the night of July 27, 1933, and that Dr. Deane gave him the poisoned drink then.

Two dent brothers of Dr. Kennedy said he unsuccessfully attempted to treat himself for poison for five days before going to a hospital in Jacksonville, where he died in five days.

Dying Declaration.

They testified he made a dying declaration accusing Dr. Deane of giving him poison. Numerous physicians also testified, some declaring there was not enough mercurial poison found in Dr. Kennedy's system to cause death.

Others said he could have absorbed the poison through constant use of disinfectants in washing his hands for operations.

Dr. Kennedy's divorced wife took the stand to say she was in five states and to deny that she was in the state of Tennessee when he was taken ill. She charged Dr. Deane with "breaking up my home."

Dr. Deane testified he had been named as Franklin C. Maull, a ship pilot of Lewes, Del., but that she had broken several weeks ago which was a physician to marry Maull. Maull did not appear at the trial.

Nothing More to Say.

At his hotel in Biloxi tonight Governor Conner declined to amplify the statement contained in his pardon announcement to the effect he had information that was not available to the courts.

With nothing further to say regarding the Deane case, Governor Conner told the Associated Press, "I dug into the case thoroughly from many different angles and obtained many information from numerous sources."

"The case was handled just as any other pardon petition would be and spent a considerable amount of time before reaching my decision," the chief executive added.

It was recalled that the only testimony given at the Governor's pardon hearing several weeks ago which was not given at the trial was that of Sam Osborne, a personal friend of Dr. Kennedy and a former law associate of attorneys representing Dr. Deane.

Not on Witness Stand.

Osborne was not placed on the witness stand during the Deane trial because attorneys retained by the Kennedy family to assist in the Deane prosecution made the point that when Osborne came to Jackson and conferred with Dr. Kennedy prior to his death the relation of counsel and client prevailed.

At the pardon hearing it was agreed by counsel for the state and for Dr. Deane to have Osborne give his testimony to the Governor behind closed doors. The nature of his testimony was not revealed.

J. FLETCHER COMER FOUND FATAALLY SHOT

Alabama Mill Executive Had Been in Poor Health
Some Time.

ALEXANDER CITY, Ala., July 8.—(AP)—J. Fletcher Comer, 59, vice president of the Avondale Mills Corporation, and son of the late former Governor, E. B. Comer, was found fatally shot in a room in his home here early tonight, victim of a wound in the mouth.

Mr. Comer was found in a dying condition at 7 p. m. Monday by members of his family, who rushed to his room after hearing the report of a gun. Near his body lay a .22-caliber rifle, used for target practice by members of his family. He died 10 minutes later without recovering consciousness.

Mr. Comer had been in declining health for some time, according to members of his family. He had just returned to Alexander City from a visit of several weeks at the Avondale mills camp, near Panama City, Florida.

Mr. Comer was vice president of the Avondale Mills Corporation, operators of cotton mills at Birmingham, Alexander City and several other places in Alabama. In addition to his connections with the mills, Mr. Comer devoted much of his time to looking out after the family farm holdings in Barbour county.

A native of Alabama, Mr. Comer was born in Barbour county, was educated in the University of Alabama and devoted practically all of his life to the textile industry. He was an active member in church circles of Alexander City.

Besides his widow, he is survived by one son, Braxton B. Comer, of Alexander City; two daughters, Mrs. Mary Comer Ruby, of Maysville, Ky., and Miss Doris Comer, of Alexander City; and three brothers, Donald Comer, of Birmingham; Braxton B. Comer Jr., of Birmingham; and Hugh Comer, of Selma, Ala.

ROCKEFELLER HEALTHY ENTERING 97TH YEAR

J. D. Celebrates Birthday
Quietly With Family at Jersey Home.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., July 8.—(AP)—John D. Rockefeller passed his ninety-sixth birthday anniversary today in the seclusion of his heavily wooded estate, Golf House.

There was no celebration, but the occasion was marked by a visit from his son and daughter, John D. Rockefeller Jr., and Mrs. E. Parmalee Prentice, of Williamstown, Mass., his granddaughter, Adeline Prentice, and a few friends.

The day was cool, and a moderate breeze scattered fleecy white clouds across a blue sky. Mr. Rockefeller was reported in fine health and good spirits. Oppressive heat affects him unpleasantly, and forced him to bed shortly before his last birthday.

Though well and grateful for good health, as his Swiss valet John Yordi expressed it, Mr. Rockefeller this year refrained from issuing his once customary birthday statement. He formerly commented on the state of affairs generally in the nation. Today, four years from the century mark, he was apparently willing to let the world go quietly on.

Guards stood at the high iron gates of the estate and blocked the paths of the curious. Little can be seen of the estate from outside save trees and a road winding up to Mr. Rockefeller's 30-room house, a nine-hole golf course and wide sloping lawns.

Routine in Golf House with its 25 servants, remained unchanged today, which marked the eightieth year since the start of a business career that carried Mr. Rockefeller from the possession of nothing to the possession of estimated billions.

Excessive heat kept the aged capitalist away from church yesterday, but his son attended union services at the First Presbyterian church, and said his father "hasn't felt better in many years."

FIVE MILLION COLLECTION FROM INSURANCE DENIED

NEW YORK, July 8.—(AP)—A spokesman for the Rockefeller family tonight reiterated denial that $5,000,000 in insurance policies reverted to an American mortality experienced table in which the theoretical maximum age is 96. At that age a reserve set up to cover the risk should have grown through compound interest to equal the face amount of the policy.

There was no intimation given of the manner in which the Rockefeller policies are drawn and insurance men said under the usual practice reversion in cash would be possible but not compulsory.

000 in insurance policies reverted to cash today to John D. Rockefeller Sr. on his ninety-sixth birthday.

Several weeks ago it was reported that the face value of the policies would be received by the elder Rockefeller on his ninety-sixth birthday.

The family's spokesman then denied the story.

Insurance men, declining direct comment on the Rockefeller case, said policies usually are drawn according to an American mortality experienced table in which the theoretical maximum age is 96. At that age a reserve set up to cover the risk should have grown through compound interest to equal the face amount of the policy.

There was no intimation given of the manner in which the Rockefeller policies are drawn and insurance men said under the usual practice reversion in cash would be possible but not compulsory.

TAXES—UP, UP, UP!

In view of the tremendous expenditures authorized by this congress, exceeding anything ever known in the history of the United States or any other nation for a similar peace period, it is not surprising that the country is threatened with a heavy upturn in federal taxes.

The actual and estimated expenditures of the federal government for 1934, 1935 and 1936 total more than $24,000,000,000—a sum equal to the total expenditures of the national government during the century and a quarter from the time it was founded until 1914.

The huge deficits that have been accumulated can be met in no way than through taxation.

The prospect of increased taxes would be less surprising if the country had not been assured, even up to a few weeks ago, by the chairman of the finance committees of both the senate and the house that there would be no tax increases this year. In this assurance the heads of these two committees dealing with the finances of the government were joined by other leaders of both branches of congress.

In view of the staggering spending program of the government, increased taxation is inevitable if there is to be anything like a balanced budget—and sound progress toward normally prosperous conditions cannot be expected until the budget is balanced.

The first step, coming in a startlingly unexpected manner, was the demand to "soak the rich" by taxation, the premise being that everybody having an income of more than a million dollars should have most of it taken away from them. So far, so good!

But investigation revealed that there are so few in this class that even confiscatory taxation would bring in an amount that would be a mere drop in the bucket as compared with the huge sums being spent. Then came the suggestion that the bracket be lowered on down the line—which means that, should the plan go through, everybody must prepare to shoulder a part of the burden of increased taxation.

If this is the only way to solve the problem presented in the necessity of balancing the budget, it should be done in a decent and orderly way. It is a problem that cannot be soundly solved overnight, in view of the conflicting elements that must be harmonized and the many pitfalls that must be avoided.

It was unfortunate that the task of revamping the tax system should have been suddenly put up to congress at a time when it was preparing to adjourn and give the country a rest and business a breathing spell.

Congress should give careful study of the tax situation and take it up at the January session, after business has been given time to go forward and the tax yardstick could be more safely applied.

Business needs relief from the uncertainty now existing.

The crops will soon be harvested and if business is unhampered, the prospect is for a fall of definitely revived business.

But so long as present uncertainty continues, business, not knowing today what to expect tomorrow, will mark time.

So again we say to congress adjourn, go home, give the country a rest and business a chance to go forward.

DEATH'S HIGHWAY CARNIVAL

Death held high carnival on the highways of America during the week-end, with 80 being killed and many times as many injured in automobile accidents on the public thoroughfares of 20 states.

Careless and foolhardy driving led to crashes between trains and automobiles, collisions between cars, the forcing of cars off of roads and over embankments, while the endeavor to safely mix liquor and gasoline added its share to the staggering toll of the week-end of "relaxation" from the cares of business.

In Atlanta one is dead and 13 injured as the result of scores of accidents occurring in and around the city—all of a preventable nature had common sense and care been exercised.

The extent to which the most ordinary safeguards in automobile driving are ignored in Atlanta is reflected in the occurrence of two serious accidents as the result of cars being forced off the streets to avoid collision with other machines cutting into their path. It is not surprising that the "cut-in" drivers take their inevitable toll when the outlying streets and highways become crowded with cars over the week-ends.

Only widespread contempt of the traffic regulations and scorn of ordinary considerations of safety could bring a toll such as marked the operation of automobiles in Atlanta over the week-end. Speed limits meant nothing, stop signs were ignored and other safeguards flaunted by thousands of drivers in cars many of which were improperly lighted and in a dangerous condition of repair.

The larger proportion of these reckless drivers carry no insurance or other protection for those who may become the victims of their foolhardiness, and have no resources from which damages may be expected for the losses inflicted.

There are two major causes for the continued record of automobile crashes that puts Atlanta among the cities having the greatest toll in dead and injured from this source—the lack of traffic-control laws with teeth in them, and the improper enforcement of the regulations we have.

Until we have these two, we can expect death to continue to hold high carnival on our public thoroughfares.

100 AND MORE—IN THE SHADE

Atlanta's climatic blessings are emphasized when the country is visited by severe heat waves such as the one recently sweeping over the middle west and parts of the north.

Some of the people of Atlanta may have felt that Saturday's high of 91 degrees was oppressive—but they should have glanced at the thermometer readings in such cities as Kansas City, with 100 degrees; Oklahoma City with 96; St. Louis, with a 94, and other points where the mercury played around the 100-degree mark. And yesterday when the mercury reached a little higher here, many midwestern and southern cities were from several degrees higher to a top of 106 in one city in the west.

No wonder that the terrific heat in the great expanse of the middle west brought sunstroke to 14 victims, while in Atlanta, atop the Piedmont escarpment, cooling breezes kept the heat from being severely felt.

A sunstroke is rare in Atlanta because we do not have the scorching temperatures of 100 and more—in the shade! On the rare occasions when a sunstroke is reported it is the result more of the physically weakened condition of the victim than the extreme heat.

Whatever may be the heat in the day, Atlanta's nights are invariably cool, giving the body opportunity to recharge its reserves of vitality and energy.

We are equally fortunate in our winter climate. While icy blizzards sweep the west and north, with the thermometer dropping far below zero and snow drifts piling up to the second floor, Atlanta has a weather bill of fare of invigorating crispness. The occasional drop of the thermometer to zero figures assures the continued health of the community and the cold never remains long enough to become unwelcome.

The combined summer and winter weather conditions in Atlanta give the city the best year-around climate in the world.

So why grumble over the heat when the thermometer toys with the upper eighties and lower nineties? Rather, gain comfort from the thought of the unfortunate who live where it is often too hot or more in the shade in the summer and where the icy blasts of winter chill to the very marrow.

World's Window

BY PIERRE VAN PAISSEN.

Land-Hunger.

Reading over the minutes of the Pan-German congress just held in the city of Königsberg, where Messrs. Goebbels, Hees and Goering took the floor, I came with amazement on the following paragraph: "What we envisage is the constitution of a German Reich, a German empire, a German empire in Europe, an empire which shall by far surpass in size the empire of 1914."

The speaker, the well-known Professor Bause, then went on to quote from the Voelkische Beobachter, Herr Hitler's personal paper, and gave an idea of the composition of that future German Reich. "In the German Reich," he said, "will first be incorporated, to wit: Germany, Austria, Danzig, Luxembourg, Poland, with its colonies in the Indies, Lithuania, furthermore the 'German' provinces of Belgium, Eupen, Malmédy, Brabant, Flanders, furthermore French Flanders, the Italian Tyrol, the Styrian province of Juliusburg, the Czechoslovak provinces of Bohemia, Moravia, and Silesia, the Polish provinces of Posen, East Prussia, the Corridor, all of Lithuania and half of Denmark."

The Herr professor further stipulated that at that congress, where Hitler himself came to applaud him, that Calais and Boulogne, two French ports on the North Sea, must come into German hands, "in order," he said, "that we may at all times have a revolver aimed at the head of England." The war against France, the amiable savant declared, must be a war without pity, so that Germany will at last be rid of that eternal troublemaker, the Frenchman. The Frenchman must be pitilessly reduced, "he" the phrases he used.

What's What?

Now, reports of such congresses are not published abroad. The memorandum which I have above, fell into my hands, an accident in a German club in Zurich. You may say Professor Bause is a fool, but what then is Hitler doing at a congress where such things are outlined? Is he really, at the time, or are the present rulers of Germany serious about it? Do they intend a war of conquest, or are they lovers of peace and friends of peace, as they never fail to announce in their speeches?

Let Professor Bause be a fool, but why do the strategic plans of the German government, as outlined in the direction Herr Bause indicated? The new autobahn system, just inaugurated by the chancellor, is a system of indestructible cement roads running into the direction of the frontiers and more specifically to those points which are mentioned in Professor Bause's plan of conquest.

There are people who believe that Herr Hitler's fantastic armaments campaign, his colossal military preparations are intended to preserve peace in Europe. When your mother and mine prepared for peace, it was left on the table, or was it to be eaten? I am afraid that those who believe that huge armies are the best guarantee of peace will be grievously disillusioned in days to come. The German business can have but one issue: war.

THE WORLD WAR 30 YEARS AGO TODAY.

July 9, 1915—The most important German overseas possessions, Southwest Africa, were rendered to the British forces led by General Louis Botha, one-time rebel leader, by the German Kaiser, Kaiser Wilhelm II, after the German Kaiser had signed the German capitulation.

This bird found in his out-house, a pair of eggs in which a hatchling had been found. The whole thing had dried, hardened as only paint can harden. Using the brush as partial support, the bird had built a nest of mud, and in it he held four young, almost ready to leave the nest. They were so far developed as to show the pattern of white on the head that is characteristic of this species.

Another nest of this species I once located was in an old square one-gallon can. The birds used the spout of the can as an entrance and it worked very well indeed. I know they brought in their young, but I have never seen a single one since.

THE INFLUENCE OF A GOOD WIFE.

Alkiba, a poor shepherd, loved Rachel, the beautiful daughter of the wealthy Kania, whose house he tended. Rachel, realizing the true worth and intelligence of Alkiba, returned his love and they were married, despite the objections of her father, who, whereupon, disowned the shepherd and disowned his daughter.

Rachel constantly encouraged her husband to study but there was so much to learn and their means were so limited that he despaired of success.

One day, on their journeying, they came to a spring and noticed where a cavity of considerable size had been formed by the constant falling of water on the stone.

"See," she said, "the continual dripping of small drops of water can make a cavity in the hardest stone. The same is true of man."

"If you would learn a little every day, eventually all the learning of the sages will be at your command."

Inspired by his good wife, he resolved to rise above his lowly position and after years of privation and study, he became the renowned Rabbi Alkiba. Scholars thronged to hear his lectures and his school became famous.

"Talmudic Tales" now available in book form of 195 pages, containing 128 of these quaint legends and over 300 Pearls of Wisdom, attractively bound in ingrained blue vellum cloth, with gold-stamped title; suitable for gifts or prizes. Price $1.50, postpaid. All books sent or orders received by July 15 will bear author's personal autograph. Address orders to "Talmudic Tales," care The Atlanta Constitution.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

BY PAUL MALLON.

EMBARRASSING QUESTIONS

WASHINGTON, July 8.—What State Secretary Hull would like to find out is who wrote that note for the League of Nations which the emperor did it himself he is a smarter Ethiopian than anyone thought, and worthy of haunting any international woodpile.

Apparently Mr. Hull was stunned at first by the embarrassing appeal to us to enforce our Kellogg peace pact. At least he stalled for time by asking the American charge at Addis Ababa for "a full report."

Impatient and annoyed, he shrugged his desk, and searched the ceiling of his office for an answer. Eventually he found it before the "full report" came from Addis Ababa. He dashed it off, took it with him to the Friday cabinet meeting, and President Roosevelt signed it immediately.

There is nothing in the story that Mr. Hull was unable to think of any answer at all and that Mr. Roosevelt wrote the response.

TSCHI! TSCHI!

The response was that President Roosevelt was gratified that the League of Nations was tried to settle the dispute; that the pact of Paris was important too; and (with further evasive ponderosity) that we were "loath to believe" Italy and Ethiopia would fight about such things.

How much Mr. Hull believed his own words is evidenced by the fact that he immediately slipped the word to his legation at Addis Ababa to get all Americans out of Ethiopia before the war started.

Mr. Hull may have found better answers on his ceiling in the past, but at least this one let everyone know he is not going to get mixed up in the Ethiopian mess, even if he never finds a particularly good reason why.

RENOVATION

A reorganization of housing agencies is being planned by Mr. Roosevelt to take effect right after congress adjourns. The big shot in the new scheme will probably be John H. Fahey, chairman of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation.

The crowd at the Federal Housing Administration will be renovated and remodeled. Control probably will rest in a co-ordinating committee headed by Mr. Fahey. Functions will be more clearly defined to eliminate overlapping and current confusion.

President Roosevelt is bent on stimulating this phase of the New Deal. Fahey rates the job because his HOLC is the best run of the housing group. He is a former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce and a New England insurance man.

GALL

The AAA dealers are preparing for a shock. They expect it from the Massachusetts circuit court of appeals in the Hoosac Mills case involving the processing tax.

This is the first case to reach an appellate court. The government won in the lower court, but the three appeal judges have delayed a decision since April 23, when arguments were closed. This delay, coupled with some other aspects of the case, has led government attorneys to mope among themselves about the prospects. They also fear that this will be the first processing case to reach the supreme court. It may assume the importance of the Schechter case.

Galling also is the fact that the Hoosac Mills is none other than William M. Butler, former republican chairman, friend of Coolidge. He is the receiver for the company.

NEWS-FLOW

You never hear much more about the Washington press corps being seduced by the government press agents or about the influence wrought by Mr. Roosevelt's sociable smile. On the contrary, there are vague murmurings among New Dealers that the newsmen have turned against President Roosevelt; that they are now hostile.

There is no more substantial basis for the second assertion than there ever was for the first. Both contain about 20 per cent of truth. The fact is a flow of news has set in against the President. News-men did not make the supreme court decision on NRA, the house insurrection on the utility bill or the reaction to the tax plan. On a broad general average, they merely are reflecting a turn of events. Some are hostile, some are not. There has been little change.

STAR-MAKING

As for the press agents, some few of them have taken advantage of the cessation of attack, to swerve their activities. Some (not a majority, perhaps) have forgotten the fact they are public officials and have become personal press agents for whatever boss happens to be over them. They have begun functioning somewhat like the Hollywood press agents trying to publicize movie stars.

In many cases this is not the fault of the press agents, but of the bosses, who want to see their names in print every day. The result is not helpful either to the New Deal or to newsmen.

SKELETON

Let it be recorded for the records that the man who put his foot down on new expansive NRA legislation was Attorney-General Homer Cummings.

It was he who prevailed over the combined proposals of NRA-O'Neill and four federal trade commissioners at an unrecorded White House conference about two weeks ago. They wanted joint action on new codes containing labor as well as fair trade practice provisions. Also they had ideas about further strengthening legislation at the session.

Mr. Cummings was "amazed" at the suggestion. He is supposed to have told the President it meant venturing into a shadowland of legality. Mr. Roosevelt agreed.

Hence the NRA is to be what it is, a skeleton in the New Deal closet, and nothing more.

SLEUTHING

Mr. Ickes' PWA sleuths never had a more unusual job than the one given them a few days ago. They were instructed to find a valuable fountain pen lost by Jack Adams, assistant in the Public Works Administration. Two detectives spent two days prowling in search of the fountain pen, without results. No one thought of trying an advertisement in the want ad section of the local newspapers.

Health Talk

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

Acne is the rather frightful name we doctors give to the ordinary blackheads and pimples of youth.

A custom of a large hospital clinic sends for me a patient who thinks it should be filed in the "How-Haw Corner" Slip F-142 which deals with acne. Says the slip, it is not contagious. It is usually due to over-eating or to taking wrong articles of food. (It just misses mentioning wrong combinations.) Then it gives some really funny advice about diet, such as:

1. Do not eat anything containing sugar, such as cake, candy, ice cream or desserts, especially chocolate. Do not eat prunes, raisins, figs, canned fruit, preserved fruit, bananas, cherries, plums or grapes. Do not eat gravies, meat soups, pastries or eggs. Do not eat fish or shellfish, except cod.

2. Lamb, chicken or fresh fish may be eaten once a day. All kinds of vegetables can be eaten freely except potatoes. Bread and butter in moderation. Milk or buttermilk (fresh). Water—at least six or eight glasses a day. There's a diet which defies analysis. No rhyme or reason in it. Purely the old hokum bunkum.

There is no sound basis for the quaint notion that too much sugar or sweets has anything to do with acne. There is less reason for the old granny idea that too much butter, gravy or fat or fried food causes blackheads and pimples.

When all is said—and a whole of it is said in medical books—about blackheads and pimples, it becomes quite obvious that we don't know why some young persons have more blackheads and pimples than others do.

It is not only nature, but beautiful for young persons to be fond of sweets and to consume plenty of ice cream, candy, chocolate and whatnot. Adults past 30 who are fully developed and perhaps inclined to carry excess weight, may fairly hold back a gasp at the easy-going diet. But when doctor, who is a brilliant clinic clerk, issues blanket instructions warning young persons against eating eggs, bananas, grapes, gravies, etc., I say that it is unwarranted.

"Bread and butter in moderation." I ask you brethren, isn't that the silliest advice?

At that age boys and girls with pimples and blackheads will get along better if they eat everything good that comes out of the earth than if they try to cut out these essential items which the old fogy meddles imagined responsible for pimples.

I have a little monograph on blackheads and pimples which any reader may have for the asking, if he provides a stamped envelope bearing his address. But I warn you, it doesn't tell you to cut out anything good to eat.

THE RACE ISN'T FAIR IF THE JONES BOYS

Get a Ten-Yard Start

BY ROBERT QUILLEN.

Misguided Sincerity.

NEW YORK, July 8.—Of all the Mahatmas who have undertaken to lead the poor to the light, the only one who has seemed to bleed internally for them and to have neither vanity nor selfish ambition is old Dr. Frank Townsend, the author of the old age pension plan.

The only note of pride in the old gentleman's makeup has to do with his little victories over death under difficult conditions in a rude, frontier country in South Dakota in his days as a horse-and-buggy doctor.

He enjoys telling of operations performed on kitchen tables in isolated farmhouses and if Sinclair Lewis had not been the job before, in the character of Doctor Kennicott in "Main Street," Doctor Townsend would provide the makings of a book.

He can hardly be accused of boasting, for he relates that in all his experience he never had a case of child-bed fever, although one baby was born in his buggy and another on a rusty, worn-out bed bearing a heavy open in which they carried the mother up a hill to escape a flood.

Doctor Townsend retired from medicine one day in Los Angeles when he had been a woman functioning in a garage can for scraps of food. He decided that this was too awful and abandoned the work that he did so well at to attempt a task which he knew would bring him no more than a few months' gain when he claimed to have 25,000,000 pledged adherents.

Townsend clubs were springing into existence all over the country and new membership rolls were tumbling in on him in big bundles every hour. The hat closet of his hotel room in Washington contained many batches of them and the petitions were stored in boxes in national headquarters of his plan.

Campaign Fizzles.

Yet, though he had become the leader and the hope of many millions of old people, he never for a moment thought of himself as a power. For himself he wanted no recognition. All he desired for himself was the knowledge that he was doing his duty.

There was in his bearing neither the quickness of a man who mock his military 34 Upton Sinclair nor the strutting vanity and arrogance of Huey Long. He knew nothing about politics, and his innocence in this respect was in sharp contrast to the man in the White House, whose sympathies were about like his.

Doctor Townsend and his plan reached their peak about the time that the papers and political reviews became suddenly aware of this strange man who was bubbling and gassing in the country and examining the nation as a phenomenon. It was a naive idea and obviously unworkable, but the publicity stimulated the movement of millions of men and women, belly-thinkers of all ages put their names to Townsend petitions and sent them in.

The publicity abated as soon as the story had been told. Doctor Townsend is no campaigner. He is not a fighter or phrase-maker and he is not strong enough physically to engage in the rough-and-tumble that "Lone Star" Coughlin enjoys. So the Townsend movement has now declined from a convulsion to a faint twitch and presently will cease altogether.

Spurred On.

It is true that he raised false hopes in many old people, but it can never be said that he played them false for any selfish purpose. He is all heart and he suffered all over the country with all his might. He has not been able to make the grade even if prosperity should be some miracle come by overnight, but they were physically tired and spent.

He refused to be courted by Sinclair or Long not because he wanted to keep his people, but because he himself by himself only because he thought Sinclair and Long would make use of his following for political purposes and to throw them down.

One phase of his plan which never was exploited much provided that the old people, secure in their leisure on guaranteed pensions, should become a part of the nation, an advisory body with the right to offer suggestions and exercise a veto backed by their superior wisdom.

He thought that in a calm state of mind, untainted by any material problems, they would produce ideas for the great good of the country which younger people in the struggle for existence would not have the vision to discover. He resented the obsolescence which comes with age and hoped to minimize the pang that comes when a man is no longer useful.

Reunion of Church Folk Proves Fatal to Girl, 3

OLIVER SPRINGS, Tenn., July 8.—(P)—Folk who gathered at the Jonesville church Sunday for a reunion came back today to attend the funeral of 3-year-old Lola Phillips, who was crushed to death beneath a picnic table.

During the reunion Lola was being chased by her twin sister, Leta, and darted under the table, loaded with large crocks of lemonade, and men, who were sitting on it.

The Rev. D. T. Jones, Baptist minister of Chattanooga, was giving the benediction when there was a crash.

Lola was taken from beneath the table, her head crushed. She died soon after.

AUSTRALIAN MINISTER DINES AT WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, July 8.—(P)—The prime minister of Australia, Joseph Aloysius Lyons and his wife dined at the white house last night.

Had they put off their visit a bit, they would have been served a state dinner hot from an electrified kitchen, with all the latest gadgets.

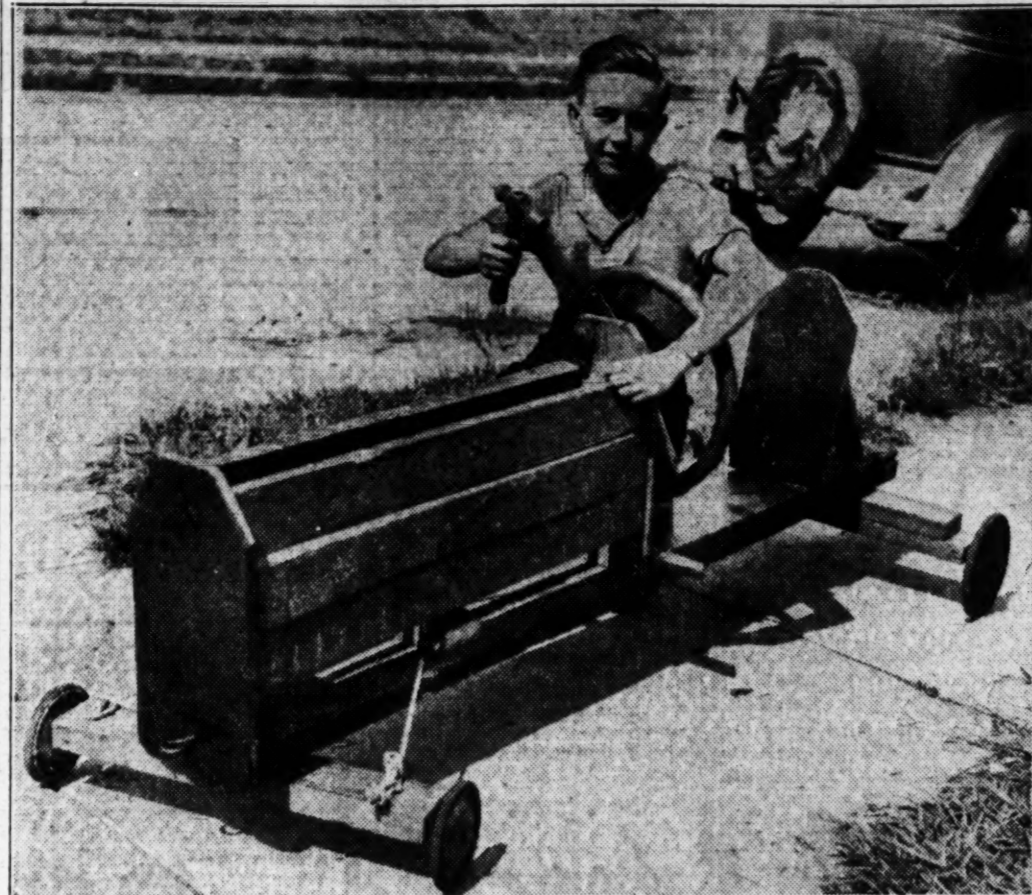

They were the last notables to be served a dinner from the old kitchens now on the verge of remodeling.

a court order from opening liquor dispensaries until the supreme court passes on the constitutionality of the liquor control acts, probably late in the fall.

Nine counties voted Saturday. All favored the opening of liquor stores by large majorities except Carteret, where the result was still in doubt.

Returns from 14 out of 29 precincts in Carteret gave the control advocates a substantial lead, but the final outcome was not expected to be determined until an official count tomorrow.

Atlanta Boy's Soap Box Racer Nearing Completion

Many Atlanta boys are busy these hot days getting specially designed soap box racers ready for the big event here July 27. If the residents of the Parkway drive and Ninth street vicinity notice an unusual amount of sawing and hammering, it's not a new building going up. It's James Bowen, of 905 Parkway drive, N. E., putting the finishing touches on his 1935 soap box racer which he hopes will win the prize. Many of James' neighbors and friends are making cars to compete with his. There are many attractive prizes this year including the first grand prize, a miniature motor driven car, to be given by Loew's Grand Theater, and a second grand prize of a miniature car given by the Atlanta Chevrolet dealers.

TOM PENDERGAST SAYS HE WILL SUPPORT F. D. R.

NEW YORK, July 8.—(P)—Confident President Roosevelt will be swept back into office with a "big majority," Thomas J. Pendergast, Missouri democratic leader, returned today on the liner Normandie from a European trip cut short by the illness of his wife.

Reticent on "politics," the florid-faced, rotund Kansas City democratic chieftain did unbind enough to say he had a "great machine" and that his state would be "75 per cent in back of the President, right or wrong—but they think he is right."

REDS SEEK LEADERSHIP AT MARINE MEETING

NEW YORK, July 8.—(P)—Long-shoremen's delegates from every major part in the United States gathered here today for the quadrennial convention of the International Longshoremen's Association, with President Joseph P. Ryan challenging radical-communist representatives to a catch-as-catch-can floor fight for the leadership.

The largest, and virtually sole challenge to the conservative administration of Ryan was from Harry Bridges, delegate from San Francisco, avowedly out to oust Ryan for his course of action in last year's bloody coast dock strikes.

A serious crack in the Pacific coast backing claimed by Bridges appeared, however, when Robert Harding, of Tacoma, Wash., Puget Sound delegate, came out for a conservative course. His pronouncement was greeted by prolonged cheering by the convention and a unanimous rising vote of thanks for his address.

Gold Vein Discovered.

FINDINGS IN TEXTILES WITHHELD BY PROBERS

Reports, Yet Incomplete, Expected To Be Revealed Next Week.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—(P)—Prospects of early recommendations from the special cabinet committee studying the cotton textile industry faded today when it developed that the subcommittee's findings still were incomplete.

Believing its work finished, the subcommittee planned to assemble its findings today and present its report to the four secretaries designated by the President to seek solutions of the problems confronting cotton mills. The cabinet group—Secretaries Hull, Wallace, Roper and Perkins—was prepared to start at once its perusal of the subcommittee report preliminary to drafting its recommendations to the President.

As the subcommittee sent over its report today, however, it developed the work still was uncompleted, and its chairman, John Dickinson, assistant secretary of commerce, ordered further analyses be made before presenting the final report to the cabinet members.

"It seems we were not as far along as we believed," Dickinson explained. "There are still several statistical tables to be analyzed and a number of finishing touches to be done. I think now we probably will have our report ready for the cabinet committee by the middle of next week."

So far as the cotton textile industry was concerned, the delay made little difference. Its present worry was

MAN'S, WIFE'S DEATHS SAID SUICIDE, MURDER

LAUREL, Miss., July 8.—(P)—Officers today described the double slaying of J. S. (Jake) Thornton and his wife at their home at Taylorsville, Smith county, last night, as murder and suicide.

Five bullets were fired into Mrs. Thornton's body by her husband, officers reported, as she was bending over an ironing board at the Thornton home.

Thornton is then said to have turned the gun upon himself, firing one bullet into his brain, which brought almost instant death.

Mrs. Thornton lived for several hours, and told officers of the slaying.

the AAA. Amendments pending in the senate, particularly a provision denying manufacturers the right to sue for refunds of processing taxes if the supreme court should decide the processing levies were unconstitutional. The amendments are expected to reach the senate floor late this week, and in the meantime the cotton textile interests, working through the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers and other trade associations, are making a final drive to solidify opposition to the amendments in general and to the provision blocking suits in particular.

SOLDIER-SLAYER GIVEN PAROLE BY TALMADGE

Governor Talmadge yesterday approved a parole for James F. Staton, former Fort McPherson soldier who was convicted in 1931 for the slaying of James T. Martin, another soldier. The parole had been recommended by the prison commission.

Another parole, for Dan Owens, Meriwether county negro who was convicted of murder in 1927, also was approved by the Governor.

American Leaguers Win Third Straight All-Star Game, 4-1

BREAK O'DAY!
By Ralph McKee

If the little woman has been demanding that you take her out and teach her the game of golf in one friendly little morning round, now is your time.

The dozen or so courses around our town will be more or less deserted this week. There will be ample room on the course for you and the little woman and your respective drives.

The state golf tournament begins at Rome today and it appears that most of the young, old and middle-aged gentlemen who clutter up our courses with regularity will be at Rome. Hence the deserted home courses. Decidedly this is the time to take the little woman out for that round of golf.

Rome sits upon her seven hills and a very beautiful city it is. And the golf course is a beautiful one also and no more than a mashie pott from the center of the business section.

There are great rolling fairways, long vistas between the trees, inviting water holes and all that a golf course needs to make it a real championship course.

Our town is to make a serious bid for the championship. It seems that Billy McWilliams, one of the state's finest golfers and sportsmen, has been devoting his time to business with golf as a sort of Sunday diversion. They are about to count him out of it because he was defeated in his club championship by a younger player.

He may be, but when the pressure goes on they will have a difficult time putting down Billy McWilliams.

Our town is sending more than half a hundred players up to the tournament. The other cities about us are contributing their quota. It is going to be probably the greatest state tournament in years, maybe the greatest. Rome does things that way.

THE ALL-STAR GAME.

It is beginning to appear that the National league is one of the finest minor leagues in major league baseball.

In three straight years of competition in the all-star contests the National league has been struck with a blunt instrument, so to say, and managed to offer little real competition.

There might be some argument as to mitigating circumstances were this all the record, but unfortunately for the Nationals, it isn't. There is the World Series record.

The World Series record shows 18 victories for the American league and 13 for the Nationals. Had it not been for the victories of the Cardinals in 1934 and the Giants in 1933, the results would be even more one-sided than they are.

The serious thinkers in baseball, casting about for some explanation of the supremacy of the American league, believe that the Yankees are the cause of it all. The Yankees spent so much money, across a span of years, the clubs which wanted to compete began to toss around money with something resembling abandon.

The Athletics did this and so did the Pirates and even Clark Griffith, the Old Fox at Washington, spent rather freely. In more modern years Tom Yawkey has been spending at Boston. And the Chicago and Detroit clubs have done the same.

They buy more good ball players in the American league. That seems to be the answer, when all is said and done. And more good ball players than the other fellow will give you the victory. Almost every time.

The American league started with a vigorous personnel and until the personal element was eliminated from baseball as the game became a business enterprise, this vigorous personnel, headed by Ban Johnson and others in the American league, gave it an impetus which it hasn't yet lost.

MCGRAW ALMOST WRECKED SERIES.

It was the late John McGraw who almost wrecked the World Series at its very outset. McGraw was always a fellow for speaking his mind, especially when it was a brisk bit of his mind he wished to speak.

The series began rather informally in 1903. Pittsburgh and Boston decided to play. It was casual and there was no supervision by either league. The American league won, five games to three.

In 1904 McGraw's Giants won the pennant in the National league. He had just left a great record in Baltimore and McGraw looked with disfavor on any sort of rival. When it was suggested by his Boston team, again the American pennant winner, that he play them a post-season series, McGraw said:

"I would not belittle my Giants by playing them against a minor league team."

This brought on another war and with difficulty the series was saved and in 1905 the Giants met the Athletics and McGraw made it look like a minor league series, winning five games to Mack's one.

Since 1905 the World Series has been an annual attraction, with the Americans showing a decided edge in victories.

OUR BRAVE LADS.

Our brave lads, the Crackers, are well out in front again. It seems they are having their little joke with the boys. It is a very dangerous sort of joke, but here of late the boys have shown an inclination to flounder around a bit and drop to within a percentage point or so of second place. They then go bounding up again.

It is very generous of them thus to encourage the plodders below them. But it is not so pleasant to those who have to cheer the Crackers. They never know just how far the Crackers are going to carry the joke.

Meanwhile, the club is in Nashville today for the first of four games. The Nashvilles are not so tough. Our nine should take, with a little hustling, about three of the four games. Unless, of course, they start joking again. One never can tell. They will have their little joke.

WINNING 20 GAMES.

At least two of our pitching staff have a chance to win 20 games this season. With more than 70 games to go, Harry Kelley and Bud Thomas are well up in their campaign. Kelley has won 14 games and Thomas 11. In 70 more contests they should manage to accumulate at least 20 each and Kelley should go ahead to his mark of 25, the goal he set before the season began.

BY ALL MEANS—A DALTON DAY.

By all means let us have a "Dalton Day" at Ponce de Leon park. The Dalton citizenry went to Chattanooga Sunday and cheered the Crackers to a double-header victory over the Lookouts. Let us have a "Dalton Day," a "Newman Day," a "Gainesville Day," and also a "day" for other cities who have so generously contributed their attendance to the Crackers this season.

Racing Fans Bet

$835,160 on Dogs

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 8.—(AP)—

Officials of the Riverside Racing Club said today that Memphis and its state greyhound racing fans bet a total of $835,160 on dog races during the 40-day season ended last week. The report said attendance during the season was slightly under the 100,000 mark. The state of Arkansas collected $37,405.90 in taxes, the 5 per cent tax on pari-mutuel betting amounting to $41,758, and the tax on admission tickets, $15,647.90. The club's commission of 10 per cent amounted to $83,516. Bettors were returned $709,880 for winning tickets. Owners of the greyhound racers collected $32,048.80 purse money.

FRISCH BLAMES POOR PITCHING, FOXX'S HOMER

Jimmy's Blow Wrecks Game in First; Americans Jubilant.

By Fritz Howell.

CLEVELAND, July 8.—(AP)—They were slapping backs in the American league dressing room after today's All-Star game, but over in the National league's shower they were slapping back. Only a little of the senior circuit players' chagrin over their third straight defeat in the All-Star encounter was offset by the fact that their efforts placed $93,692.80 more in the fund which will be used to aid unfortunate baseball players.

Mickey Cochrane, whose Detroit Tigers lost the World Series last year to St. Louis, was jubilant as his players, recruited from every club in the league, crowded around to shake his hand.

"I've got back of 'em for you," was Jimmy Fox's greeting to the victors.

Jimmy's long home run in the first inning, with Lou Gehrig, of the Yankees, on base, helped give the Americans the lead in the first inning.

HITS CURVE.

"What was it you hit?" Mickey asked Fox.

"A curve," was the reply. "They will try to hook that three-and-two ball, these National leaguers."

Frankie Frisch, skipper of the Cardinals, who led the Nationals into the All-Star fray, was rather melancholy about it all but placed the blame on his pitchers.

"Practically all of them have been working hard lately and three of the boys we had to rely on pitched nine innings yesterday. The result was they just didn't do their stuff. We had a couple of chances to win the game with a hit in the right place, but Gomez and Harder bore down and we didn't get 'em."

The turning point of the game, according to Frisch's estimate, came almost before the contest was under way.

"Fox just about wrecked the game with that homer in the first. The turning point came with only two out in the first inning and you can't win 'em much quicker than that."

Asked why he chose Walker, of the Cardinals, over-night entry on the National All-Star lineup, as his starting pitcher, Frisch replied:

"I thought it was the best strategy at the moment. I'd start him again under the same circumstances. The only mistake he made was to pitch a run ball he threw to Fox. It was a hook, but it came in there too nice. This can't go on forever, and we'll be there after 'em again."

Gomez and Harder, along with the home-hitting Fox, were the heroes down in the Americans' room, their mates slapping them on the back for their sterling mound work.

But Dizzy Dean, shoved on the mound for the Nationals in the eighth frame and escaping being scored on by the skin of his teeth, wasn't so popular as he dressed after the game.

"Can't throw 'em through there like you used to, can you Ditz?" asked Mel Ott, New York's derby outfielder.

But Ditz came back with a typical Dean answer:

"I didn't have all my stuff working today—just I'll be throwing 'em all you guys for the rest of the year."

LEAGUE PREXY RESIGNS POST

AMERICAN, Ga., July 8.—(AP)—

Hollis Fort, of American, said today he would tender his resignation tomorrow as president of the Georgia-Florida baseball league.

The league's directors met in Thomasville, Ga., an attorney here, declined to discuss his resignation, but it was understood that Fort's resignation was due to money troubles in the league had arisen over umpires, and division of gate receipts.

In a recent letter to league officials, Fort said he was gratified at the financial showing made during the first half of the season. The letter, published today, showed Albany led other cities in the league both in attendance and gate receipts during the first half of the season.

Albany had 17,155 persons at games during the first half, and took in $3,941.63 in gate receipts. The Atlanta Travelers won the first half of the pennant season.

Official figures for other clubs in the league, Fort's letter gave as follows:

Tallahassee, Fla.—Attendance, 11,329; receipts, $4,008.

Americus, 10,884 and $3,280.

Thomasville, 9,854 and $3,439.01.

Moultrie, 7,174 and $2,244.55.

Panama City, Fla.—5,872 and $2,187.40.

Total attendance for all six clubs for the first half was 62,278; total receipts, $20,621.11.

Fort's letter urged all club presidents and directors to "stay within your means" and to "pay no more than the league's national association, and make your clubs self-sustaining as possible."

This is the first year of the Georgia-Florida league and I am anxious to make a good showing, but it will take strict economy on the part of every club to keep finances in shape. I think all clubs have splendid teams, and that they are giving their best to the baseball public, and from the present outlook it seems to me that the Georgia-Florida league has a bright future."

Waycross To Build New Sports Shell

WAYCROSS, Ga., July 8.—The project for the construction of a municipal auditorium and basketball shell in Waycross has been given final approval in Atlanta and in Washington, according to a telegram received today by M. M. Monroe, member of the city commission.

Albany Is Visited By Rain of Fish

ALBANY, N. Y., July 8.—(UP)—Fish fell on Albany streets today at the height of a cloudburst. James Bower, 11, said Jimmie Devot, 16, displayed an armful of fish which they said "came right up our doorstep." The fish, apparently perch, ranged from two to six inches.

VERBAL BATTLE.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—(UP)—Ben Chapman, Yankee outfielder, who once started a near riot in Griffith stadium, hurled insults today at Buck Newsum, Washington pitcher, in a word battle that promised to develop into a major baseball feud.

Nemesis

Vernon "Goofy" Gomez won his second victory over the national league all-stars Monday, holding the senior loop's picked batsmen to three hits in six innings. Cochrane started Gomez as a surprise move and the goofy one came through again. Gomez was the winning hurler in the first all-star game in 1933.

When he had to leave the game it marked the first time this season that the club's popular little field captain has been taken out of the lineup. He has been a durable performer, having played in every one of the club's games to date.

Moore announced in Chattanooga Sunday night before herding his athletes into the Pullmans, that Elmer Bill Schmidt, the lanky California boy who pitched a fine game against the Vols in the first game of the July 4 double-header here, giving them only five hits, would be his choice to pitch the opener in Nashville.

Schmidt, after a slow start, seems to have found himself of late and has improved his pitching record considerably.

NELSON COMES THROUGH.

Another highly encouraging development along the pitching line was the return to winning form of Big Jim Lindsey and Lynn Nelson in the Chattanooga series. Both pitchers went the route to take some of the burden off the rest of the staff in the two double-headers in a row there and Nelson was particularly brilliant in giving the Lookouts just four hits in six innings.

NELSON COMES THROUGH.

Another highly encouraging development along the pitching line was the return to winning form of Big Jim Lindsey and Lynn Nelson in the Chattanooga series. Both pitchers went the route to take some of the burden off the rest of the staff in the two double-headers in a row there and Nelson was particularly brilliant in giving the Lookouts just four hits in six innings.

Schmidt, after a slow start, seems to have found himself of late and has improved his pitching record considerably.

Free-for-All Battle Seen as Struggle for Open Water

ATLANTA SEES A STRONG GROUP TO ROME MATCH

Bill McWilliams Faces Real Battle in Defense of His Title.

By Kenneth Gregory.

ROME, Ga., July 8.—(AP)—Lacking an outstanding favorite among the more than 100 players entered, a "free-for-all" battle is expected to develop as youngsters and veterans explored the difficult Coosa Country Club course today in preparation for Georgia's greatest golf event—the annual amateur tournament.

It was generally agreed that the long and tricky layout, located on the banks of the Coosa river and containing many "dog leg" holes and lined with inviting bunkers, would take its toll of ambitious campaigners in the 18-hole qualifying test.

Standard figures for the 6,418-yard course are 36-35—71 and many open predicted that scores of around 82 would gain the championship division of 32 players. Three additional flights of 32 are planned for the match play starting Wednesday.

SEEKS THIRD TITLE.

Young Billy McWilliams, respected Atlanta amateur, is expected to be a star who is entered under Rome's colors, has won the championship for the last two years, and victory for the lanky shotmaker would give him the added distinction of being the only golfer to annex the crown twice in succession.

Notably missing from the field is Charlie Yates, of Atlanta, recently dethroned intercollegiate champion, who along with Gene Cook, former citizen of the Georgia Amateur, has added distinction of being the only golfer to annex the crown twice in succession.

McWilliams threw the competition into a wide open affair through his loss yesterday to left-handed Alvin Everett, of Rome, for the Coosa Club championship by the one-sided margin of 6 and 4.

McWilliams' loss was a surprise, but did not recall whether a southpaw had ever won the state title and it was considered doubtful that the unorthodox club player could survive the assault of the right-handers.

A STRONG FIELD.

The tournament, held in the northern sector of the state for the first time in more than a dozen years, has attracted the cream of the amateurs from the larger cities and towns. Atlanta and Rome furnished the largest delegations. Representing also on hand from Augusta, Columbus, Savannah, Athens and other points.

With the exception of three or four greens the course was in excellent condition. The fairways are smooth but will offer plenty of trouble for those who push or pull their shots.

Most of the greens are fast, thus favoring those campaigners who control their short game.

In practice rounds this afternoon, Pete Barnes, of Atlanta, turned in one of the best cards, a 72, one over par. Among others trying out the course in leisurely strokes were Dr. Curtis Hughes, of Marietta, who bagged a 74; James "Kid" Brown, of Atlanta, 78; Tommy Barnes, of Atlanta, 80.

Crawford Rainwater, of Atlanta, finished 75 in a junior event, the course Sunday. In defeating McWilliams Everett carried a 78. Kid Brown registered a 76.

Singles rounds of match play are scheduled Wednesday and Thursday, with the quarter-finals and the semi-finals on the program for Friday. The finals, with the championship flight at 36 holes and the lower divisions at 18, are scheduled for Saturday.

Atlanta Offers A Serious Threat.

Julius Hughes, former Atlanta open and amateur champion; Charlie Black Jr., former city and state champion; Bill Terrell, former city and state champion; Crawford and Brown Rainwater, Stanley Holditch, winner of the Columbus and Albany tournaments; and Dr. Curtis Hughes, Dan Sage Jr., will head Atlanta's entries in the annual state tournament over the Coosa Country Club course.

Several of the Atlanta stars posted good practice round scores over the weekend.

Every private and municipal club in the city will be well represented, with more than 80 players entered from the Gate City.

Each of the private clubs will have unusually strong teams and will make a bid for the team trophy and the individual awards that go to each member of the team.

Julius Hughes, runner-up to Billy McWilliams, the defending champion, will be the chief threat. Hughes has won several invitation tournaments, but has never won a state crown. He is playing good golf now and in six rounds of the Coosa Country Club course he has been only four strokes over par.

Atlanta's group of young stars are also looking forward to the Coosa match, showing at Rome and it would not be surprising to find at least a dozen Atlantas included in the first 32 players.

Honey Boy Hackney Again Features Card

Honey Boy Hackney, New Jersey boxer, will headline another wrestling card Thursday night at the Avondale open-air arena. He will meet Sam Miller, Assyrian champion. Plenty of action is anticipated in the Miller-Hackney match when they tangle in a one hour, two-out-of-three falls match. The first match will start promptly at 8:45 o'clock.

Emilio Firpo, Argentine light fighter, will share honors with the rugged Wayne Coleman, known as "Iron Man," in the one hour semi-windup match. Both wrestlers are rugged and rough, according to newspaper clippings. Firpo, former heavyweight boxing contender, comes here with an impressive record.

Lawson Little Plans Drastic Golf Change

LONDON, July 8.—(AP)—Disappointed at his play in the British Open, Lawson Little Jr., British amateur, plans drastic changes in his game before the United States Amateur at Cleveland in September.

In the short time available after his return to America, the husky Californian will attempt to completely alter his back swing, getting his club head open at the top instead of closed at present.

Hill First Cracker To Compile 100 Hits Club's Young Third Baseman Is Team's Greatest Bargain; Pelicans Are Club To Beat.

By Jimmy Jones.

It seems to have been overlooked in the general report of Sunday's news, but Johnny Hill, the quiet Douglasville Ga., youth, became the first Cracker of 1935 to get 100 hits when he laced out a single and triple in the second game of the Sabbath double-header with the Lookouts.

This lad playing his first season in professional ball, has been one of the sensations of this ball club from the start. Twenty-three years old and fresh from the sandlots, he has shown that he was a natural hitter since the day he reported to Eddie Moore down at Daytona Beach.

There were those who thought that the Georgia boy might wilt when the hot rays of late June and early July began to scorch the infield grass, but July 4—the day on which most baseball judgment is proven wise or otherwise—found him still plugging away at the plate and in the field, getting his singles, doubles and triples with monotonous regularity.

SCOUT EYES HIM.

There was a big league scout, Johnny Nee, of the New York Yankees—looking at Johnny up in Chattanooga, Tenn., in the way the way the young Cracker third baseman is hitting and improving on his fielding, there will be a lot of him going this old double-O before the season is over.

He and "Nig" Lipscomb, the Cracker second baseman, and Bobby Durham, the club's pitcher, are the Cracker bargains of the year. None of them cost the club any actual cash, Hill being signed off the sandlots during the winter, and Lipscomb and Durham coming down from Chicago, the Cracker "farm" maintained by the late William Robinson for two years.

JAMES ANOTHER.

If "Nig" Lipscomb, the young out-fielder comes through, and Chester Martin is of any help, Uncle Robby's losing investment at Charlotte may be written into a big profit for the 1935 Cracker organization.

Robinson dropped around $8,000 of his own cash in sponsoring Johnny Nee, who passed away, in the Charlotte venture.

Manager Moore Uses His Head.

Those Atlantas who watched the Cracker team take the Lookouts Sunday, will give Eddie Moore credit for using that cunning baseball brain of his to advantage several times.

To begin with, Eddie switched James, who has been hitting sixth, up to lead-off and moved Pete Hamel down to second base. Chester Moore was working a couple of left-handers, Cohen and Petty, and he didn't want to keep passing "Sheriff" Harris, who hits right, to get at James, a left-handed hitter.

Then, in the second game, Eddie pulled another heads-up piece of strategy.

In the seventh, the Lookouts tied the score at 2 all on Jackson's single and Remer's home run triple to center. Eddie had Nelson pass both Marion and Hill, and get at Joe Pettit, the pitcher, thereby filling the bases with only one out.

NO PITCHERS.

He knew that Clyde Milan, the Lookout manager, wasn't going to send in a pitcher-hitter. Pettit for the simple reason that he had no more pitchers left in case the game went into extra innings. So when Pettit bunted into Lipscomb's hands and the latter over and over again, Pettit for a double play unassisted, the Cracker came out of the jam and went on into the eighth, when they won the game on Alex Hook's single, scoring James.

A FEW NOTES.

Freddie Sington, who made his debut with the Lookouts, looked a little overweight and stiff from too much back-swinging at Daytona Beach. The two home-run pigeons, Joe Engel turned loose before the game were Atlanta pigeons, belonging to C. A. Murphy, secretary of the Atlanta Baseball Association. They both made a bee-line for Atlanta over the mountains. Joe should have kept them until after the game and the latter score. They both agree the New Orleans Pelicans are the club to watch in the Shaughnessy play-off. . . . Gilbert has them coming fast. . . . The reason for the Cracker's offensive is their pitcher, who is still a valuable asset to the Cracker as a player. Today he goes to shortstop to replace Chatham, who is hurt. . . . Eddie can play anywhere and this makes him doubly valuable as a utility man.

FAVORITES IN PUBLIC PARKS TENNIS TOURNAMENT

One Entrant Desires To Leave Early So He Can Milk.

By Jack Troy.

Atlanta's first public parks tennis tournament which opened yesterday on the splendidly conditioned courts at Grant park, with all favorites pegging along to the second and third rounds by one means or another—default or victory—offered an incident that reminded Jack Mooney, tourney manager, of the 1920 southern at New Orleans.

A Central American entrant came on the court, Mooney said, with his civilian clothes on, including tie and hat. He later took off the hat and put on tennis shoes.

Walking up to the umpire, he said: "I'll be ready to play just as soon as you explain the rules of this game to me."

Well, yesterday, in the hot of the evening, a young man came up to Mooney and said: "I wish you would let me play one set today and another tomorrow. I live rather far out and I have to go and milk."

He walked on the court he asked his opponent, "Say, how do you score this game, anyway?"

FINE TOURNAMENT.

It's a fine tournament, the public parks and the Atlanta Tennis Association has scored again. The city's tennis democrats are giving their all—and that is quite enough.

There is a real entrant win. The singles and doubles winners go to New Orleans for the national public parks tournament. Three will go if the gate receipts at the Biltmore Tennis Club, where the semi-finals and finals will be played on Friday and Saturday, warrant. Otherwise, only two will be sent.

Meanwhile, the tournament will rage on over the splendid Grant park courts through Thursday. There are a number of fine matches scheduled today and there is no admission charge to the public. Spectators are invited.

Preston Chambers, No. 1 seeded yesterday, led the advance into the third yesterday with a convincing victory over Bill Canfield, 6-2, 6-2.

Chambers is really the man to beat in this tournament. He is very, very steady.

(Red) Enloe, seeded No. 2, had little difficulty in his second-round match with Ed Hughes, winning 6-1, 6-3.

RESE ADVANCES.

Champ Reese, third seeded, won five games in the first set of his match in the second-round match with J. Bradshaw without losing a point. He had his first point on a double fault.

The match went to 6-1, 6-2. Malcolm Manley, fourth seeded, advanced to the third round without so much as waving a racket. He won by default of P. Rawlins, Campbell Gillespie, seeded fifth, also advanced by default of Nat Collins.

Billy Gillespie, unseeded, was given a battle to survive his second-round match with Glenn McConnell. The match went to three sets, with Gillespie winning the first, 6-2, losing the second, 6-0, and then closing out the match at 6-1, 6-2.

Ben Hargrove and Tom Tumlin, seeded sixth and seventh, played first-round matches and won with some convincing margins. Hargrove defeated Joe Gilmore, 6-0, 6-1, and Tumlin eliminated E. Berman, 6-2, 6-3.

Bud Lindsay, No. 8, was the only seeded player called into play in the first round. He won by default of A. C. Johnson Jr., 6-2, 3-6, 6-0, in the first round, and then turned back Grady Valentine, 6-0, 6-1, in the second round.

JONES GOOD.

Albert Jones, captain of the University of Georgia freshmen team this past season, showed fine form in winning his second-round match from Eugene Ray, 2-6, 6-2.

Another brilliantly fought three-set match saw J. Lake defeat Robert Eleazer, 6-3, 5-7, 6-1. Dupont Fisher was forced to retire after 11 minutes of play. He won by default of E. Brannon, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2.

All the players professed pleasure regarding the condition of all courts. Today's first-round matches were:

SECOND ROUND.

4:30—Jeff Warren plays the winner of P. J. Adams match.

4:45—John Drager plays Sam Siet.

5:00—Tom Tumlin plays Dupont Fisher.

5:15—Jack Morris plays Walter Dukes.

5:30—Ben Hargrove plays Howard Moss.

5:45—Al Christy plays Sam Siet.

6:00—Bill Gillespie plays Malcolm Manley.

THE SPORT-LIGHT

Out Foxed.

The Babe wasn't on hand—but a young fellow named James Emory Fox was there in his place.

The young giant from Sudlersville, Md., broke up the Cleveland show, leaving the National league still on the outside looking in. One ball game doesn't mean a lot, but three all-star victories, spaced three years apart, show the main punching power still belongs with the American league.

It was Walker who took the main rap, what might have happened if Frisch had called on Schumacher, Dean and Derringer in order is another guess. As it turned out, the American league drew the better pitching, and this was one of the main surprises of the all-star day.

Four scattered hits in a light shower, far below what might be labeled a normal expectancy, with the pick of the older circuit moving up to the plate, Vaughan, Martin, Medwick, Frisch, Terry, Ott were figured to have a few more pinches of nitro.

The night was packed in, but the American league pitching, headed by Gomez and Harder, was entirely too strong.

At the day's attack belonged to James Emory Fox, who is still not as gentle a playmate as a grizzly bear.

In this last occasion the shrill, plaintive bird-like cry of the league fans will be even louder than it was before. They are still wondering why Schumacher, Derringer or Dean didn't start.

EVANS TO SEEK WESTERN CROWN

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 8.—(AP)—Durable Chick Evans, of Chicago, will be on hand for a try at his ninth Western Amateur Golf championship when the annual tournament opens at the Broadmoor course here July 16.

The Chick, who won his first western a quarter-century ago, will not be the only one to seek the crown. Zell Enloe, present titleholder, will defend. Tourney officials still are hopeful Lawson Little, world amateur champion, will return from England for a crack at the title.

Other park crackers expected to be in the field include John Goodman, trans-Mississippi winner; Ed White, winner of the 1934 national championship; Gus Moreland, former Western and trans-Mississippi king; Rodney Bliss, David (Spec) Goldman, Harry Todd, Leonard Hamman and Ed Steward.

The Broadmoor course is tough, but Evans feels the circumstances under which he won his third western title in 1915 will be repeated.

The meet that year was in Denver, and on the Sunday before it started Cherry creek rose and flooded the country, cutting course in a residential section of the city.

Laborers worked feverishly and by Tuesday had staked out a 9-hole course on the clubhouse side of the creek. Constant play, with "rules," which permitted them to shift the ball to a tuft of grass when it stopped in mud, Evans defeated the field, 18 and 17, in the final, 1-0 in 36 holes.

AMERICAN STARS DEFEAT NATIONALS

allowing one hit, the same record that Dizzy had.

Two doubles, by Arky Vaughan, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and Manager Jimmy Wilson, of the Phillies, and singles by Popper Martin, of the Cardinals, and Bill Terry, of the Giants, who drove in the only National run, was the extent of the Nationals' attack along with two useless bases on balls.

HIT IN PINCH.

Except for Vaughan, who scored the only National run, only three batted second against Gomez and Harder. The Americans collected only eight hits, Fox, Gehring and Simmons getting two apiece, but bunched most of the hits in the first inning.

The first and decisive American league inning started as Billy Herman, of the Cubs, tossed out Joe Voskuhl, of Cleveland, who was walking, but was forced at second by Gehring, who went hitless all day. Then, with the count two and two, Walker threw a sweeping curve waist high to Fox.

Jimmy swung and the ball hit the lower left field stands about 340 feet away in the huge stadium. The crowd, naturally a pro-American one, roared. The big hand was as he trotted around the bases, grinning and happy.

Simmons struck out to start the second. Rolfe Hensley, of the St. Louis Browns, a late recruit at his last stop because of the injury to Bill Dickey, of the Yankees, fired another salute with a hard, long smash that landed in the left field wall and out of Joe Medwick's reach for a triple.

He scored on the next play as Joe Cronin, of Washington, hit a high, long fly to center that gave him plenty of time to trot home.

The Nationals, shut out by every turn by Gomez's fast ball, collected their only score in the fourth inning. Vaughan rammed a hard hit to right-center and raced to second as Vosmik vainly attempted to stop the ball. He hesitated at second as Ott, another one of the Nationals' hitters, thrived today, popped to Hemmley and as Medwick walked. Terry then hit the first pitch over second to score Vaughan.

The situation looked dark for the first and last time the Americans but Gomez was more than equal to the emergency.

WALLY BERGER FANS.

He drove out the Wally Berger dangerous Boston hitter, and forced Herman to pop one to Bob Johnson.

Schumacher was lucky to escape with only one run against him in the last inning of the Americans in the fifth. After two were out, the Cochran men filled the bases with Fox coming up again. Fox smashed a hard one at Schumacher, who partially stopped it, but not enough to keep Vosmik from scoring and leaving the bags jammed.

Johnson then stepped up and it was there that Schumacher displayed the form that has made him one of the pitching greats of the game.

He burned 'em by Bob the Cherokee, who was blind speed that he didn't even get a piece of the ball, striking out.

What happened thereafter was incidental except when Dizzy strode to the mound. The crowd greeted him with cheers, yells and cat-calls that echoed in the park, it seemed, long after the game had ended as a night-mare rhapsody for the National league.

U. S. TO WEED OUT 'FLIERS' IN CHAIRS

All Air Corps Officers Will Be Classified As To Their Flying Ability.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—(AP)—Moving to weed out so-called "swivel-chair" fliers, the war department announced today the creation of a flying proficiency board to classify all air corps officers as to their flying ability.

It will pass on reports of rigid actual flying tests to which all air corps officers are to be subjected in line with recommendations of the Baker committee which investigated military aviation activities.

Brigadier General James E. Cheney will be chairman of the board. Other members are Brigadier General Frank M. Andrews, commanding officer of the general headquarters air force; Brigadier General Henry C. Pratt, Langley Field, Virginia, and Lieutenant Colonel Arnold N. Krogstad, office of the chief of air corps.

AT ATLANTA'S THEATERS

Barthelmess Scores

In Drama at Capitol

A decidedly better-than-ordinary drama appears on the screen at the Capitol theater this week, with Richard Barthelmess playing the lead and showing his usual capability in handling a convict role. The scene is laid inside a theater, for once on the dark side of the footlights, Barthelmess, an escaped convict, crouches in his orchestra seat to kill the man who squealed on him and sent him to prison.

About him sit others whose lives are tangled with his and whose life dramas are ascending to a climax along with his. One is a former clock-room boy who has grown rich by cheating. Another is a wealthy woman planning a clandestine love affair. Still another is a handsome Lothario who has carried his practices a bit too far. Police are seen in the darkened audience. The man hunt is on. The escaped convict makes a desperate bid to get his own and his co-conspirators out of the theater before the eyes of the startled theatergoers.

An unusually good stage show highly pleases the audience as it enters its smooth routine before the background of Joe Clauser and his Soldiers of Rhythm band. Loretta Grey and the Collegians head the bill with a delightful presentation. "Miss Grey is the comedienne famous on Broadway for her work in George White's Scandals, "The Four Flying Comets, a skating team which created a sensation in Europe, fairly burn the boards up, as do McGarry and Dawn, dancers de luxe. Clifford and Leslie, "the two merry jesters," keep up a rapid fire of fun throughout the show, while Edith Rogers, with her violin, and Guy Rucker, trumpet, bring real art to the varied bill.

LIBERAL SOLONS COOL

TO NEW THIRD PARTY

WASHINGTON, July 8.—(AP)—A partial poll of liberal members of congress disclosed today a lack of enthusiasm for the American Commonwealth Political Federation, formed at Chicago Saturday and charged with the job of organizing a left wing third party by 1936.

The consensus seemed to be that the Chicago meeting had acted too hastily without a representative expression of opinion from the nation's liberal leadership.

Representative Marcantonio, republican New York, who was active in sponsoring the Chicago meeting and who walked out in disagreement when it was decided to launch the party at once, expressed the opinion that the gathering had exceeded its avowed purpose.

"Werewolf of London"

Now Playing Georgia

The oddest and most daring film of the year is now showing at the Georgia theater. It is Universal's "Werewolf of London," a story based on the werewolf legend which has been handed down through the ages, and is still prevalent in central Europe.

A werewolf is a man who becomes transformed into a wolf each night during the full of the moon. The remainder of the time he assumes his natural form. The legend is that if a man is bitten by a werewolf he then becomes a werewolf himself.

In "Werewolf of London" Henry Hull, great character actor, is the man who has been bitten by a werewolf. And the entire story is laid around his life and actions in England after he has become aware of his terrible affliction. His struggles to prevent his transformation is terrific, but he loses his fight and becomes a wolf and throws horror into all of London, as he prowls the dark streets nightly, murdering innocent women.

The climax comes with his attempt to kill his own wife.

Warner Oland, Valerie Hobson, Lester Matthews, Spring Byington, Clark Williams, J. M. Kerrigan, and Charlotte Granville are a few of the other noted players in this film which was directed by Stuart Walker, the man who directed "The Mystery of Edwin Drood."

Judge and Mrs. Bryan and Daughter Reach New York Next Thursday

By Sally Forth.

AMONG the passengers traveling on the steamer Manhattan and nearing their native shores are Judge and Mrs. Shepherd Bryan and Mary Bryan. The steamer docks at New York on Thursday and the Atlanta trio will entrain at once for home. And, speaking of Mary Bryan, have you seen the current issue of Time? Under the section of "Foreign News," Sally found herself gazing at the likenesses of (as Time says) Atlanta's Richardson, Alston and Bryan, who are, of course, Louise, Anne and Mary in the order named. They were among the presentees at the June drawing room at Buckingham Palace, and accompanying their pictures is a running story, part of which is quoted here:

"Last week there was definitely sunshine in the United States embassy and it burgeoned with what London called 'Georgia Peaches.' It seemed odd to aspirants in various parts of the United States who have been turned down for this year's silver jubilee courts that such slips of girls from Atlanta, Georgia, two of the sub-deb age, should be presented at Buckingham Palace by sweet-faced Mrs. Bingham.

"Last week the reason seemed clear and harmless to a degree. In the line of duty their majesties are prepared to receive almost any female against whom nothing is positively known and who is sponsored by her country's envoy. In the south, good Squire (Robert) Bingham has few cronies closer than Judge Shepherd Bryan, of Atlanta. In turn Judge Bryan's titian-haired, freckle-faced daughter, Mary, of Oglethorpe University, has few chums closer than that peach and cream sub-deb pair, Louise Richardson and Anne Alston. Twice has Anne Alston been crowned 'Queen of the May' first at Atlanta's Washington Seminary and again this year at Oglethorpe, near Philadelphia, Pa.

"Last week Judge and Mrs. Bryan were house guests of Ambassador and Mrs. Bingham as southern hospitality opened wide the door of Buckingham Palace and the three 'Georgia Peaches' sailed in to drop dirt curtsies to Queen Mary."

BILL SPALDING and his lovely fiancée, Elizabeth Edwards, of Jacksonville, Fla., spent yesterday in the city. An all-too-short time, but at least it gave Bill's friends an opportunity to meet the blonde beauty who is to become his bride in the fall. And those who had the pleasure can readily understand Bill's complete surrender to her charms. Sally hears that she is positively ravishing!

There was only time to get in one party, so Bill's mother, Mrs. William F. Spalding, and his sister, Elizabeth, gave a cocktail party at the Driving Club. The occasion was punctuated, of course, with numerous congratulations for the happy bridegroom-to-be, and many good wishes for his fiancée, whom Bill's host of friends consider a very lucky person.

Bill and Elizabeth returned to New York last night. Elizabeth is studying there, you know, and, of course, Bill had to get back to the responsible affairs of the Enka company. They made a hurried week-end visit to Jacksonville for the announcement of their engagement, which was made at a brilliant dinner given Saturday evening by Elizabeth's parents at the Timuquana Country Club.

NEWS from out of the west tells of the good times being enjoyed by lovely Laura Maddox who is visiting Helene Lee at her home in Los Angeles. The latter, you know, was Laura's guest the early part of the summer and the Atlanta belle accompanied her to her home on the west coast. They were classmates at Finch school in New York during last year.

For the Fourth of July week-end, Laura and her hostess, with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenyon Lee, motored to Santa Monica Beach for an all-day picnic and a dance in the evening. Tom Chandler, of Los Angeles, gave a dinner for Laura and the elaborate garden party given by Mrs. Banks Gibson complimented the Atlanta belle.

The coming week-end Helene and Laura will go to Santa Barbara for a visit and Frank Hanns gives a dinner on July 18. The following week-end Mr. and Mrs. Lee, Helene and Laura will go to San Diego, where they will enjoy the exposition, and will later journey to Agua Caliente for a visit. As a last roundup before returning to Atlanta the latter part of this month, Laura and her hostess will spend some time at a western ranch.

COMPOSING the congenial group motoring to Buford today will be Applegate Hightower, Catherine Owens of Shelbyville, Ky.; Alvin Coolidge, Spalding Schroder and Jack Hogg. They will be dinner guests of Alma Knight, the pretty daughter of the Golden Knights who is as popular here as in Buford. Alma will give a dinner for Catherine, the Kentucky belle who is visiting Annette, and whose presence here has inspired lots of hostesses to give parties.

IT WON'T be long now before Mr. and Mrs. Jim Williams are very much in the air. They recently returned from a flying trip to Sea Island, and Jane is learning how to drive Jim's plane. "I don't want to start it or stop it," she says; "I just want to know how to keep it in the air."

Jim took several of his friends for a ride last Sunday, and was, as usual, very businesslike while driving. One young lady caused quite an uproar when she started to open the cabin window, only to find that it was the door.

Club Institute Takes Place This Week in Athens

ATHENS, Ga., July 8.—Under the general formation of Mrs. Josephine Junkin Doggett, of Washington, D. C., and with the assistance of leading women of the state, the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs will hold its annual institute—the twelfth—at the University of Georgia July 11 and 12.

Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, Athens, is president of the Georgia federation. Members of the institute committee include Mrs. Lamar Cobb Rucker, Mrs. S. V. Sanford, Mrs. E. D. Pusey and Mrs. A. B. Conger, of Athens. The institute on the work of Tallulah Falls school, a special project of the Georgia federation, Mrs. John K. Otley, of Atlanta, will have charge of a program dealing with this institution, on which will be Mrs. Will Parham, Watkinsville, Tallulah's first teacher; Miss Laura Blackshear, Athens, a former principal; Mrs. J. L. Hutchins, Athens, whose sister, the late Mrs. M. A. Lipscomb, was the school founder, and Miss Sarah Moss, Athens, whose family contributed to the founding.

After the Club Women's Institute program is concluded will be the annual conference of city and county school superintendents, education board members and laymen interested in educational progress in Georgia takes place. Under the general direction of Dr. M. D. Collins, state school superintendent, and Dr. E. D. Pusey, director of the summer quarter, the conference will assemble numbers of men and women and will bring to Athens many eminent speakers. Miss Gay B. Shepperson, Atlanta, Georgia works progress administrator, and Mrs. Charles D. Center, president of the Georgia Congress of Parents and Teachers, are among the prominent women on the program.

A third conference to be held is the annual P-T-A. Congress which will assemble a number of prominent Georgia women on the Athens campus. Details of this program have not yet been announced.

- TANGLED LOVE -

By MARGARET GORMAN NICHOLS

WHAT WAS GONE BEFORE: Noel, her younger sister, good swimmer and expert diver, sun-browned and self-reliant, live with their faded aristocratic Aunt Jessica in an old house on half an acre of Stuart Island overlooking the Potomac, all of which their grandfather had owned. The aunt needs what they pay her from the rentals of their old Baltimore home, made over into studios, and she is counting on marrying the plant hunter to Stephen Gordon, wealthy young member of island's summer colony. Returning after five long years in a northern boarding school, Noel becomes friends with Scott Court and Ned Wilson, young writers and Linda Farley, artist, tenants in the Baltimore house. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT VIII.

"Perhaps I'm apologizing to myself because I know perfectly well you are the one girl for me and I can't give up that foolish ideal of mine. I'll probably marry that ideal, Noel, and come back to you begging you to love me as you love me now. But you wouldn't. It wouldn't be the same."

"Scott, I'm proud and I don't want to be humble, but if you want me, come back... come back. A success or a failure in love or in writing, I want you."

"Noel, my dear, I don't deserve this. I'm more human than you think."

"Remember what I said."

"How can I ever forget it?"

It was raining less heavily now. The rain-swept streets were cooled and a mild breeze was blowing.

"Shall we venture out now?" he asked.

"We could run."

"You'd outrun me."

"No. Let's run."

"But the rain," he persisted, "be- long to us. When it rains, we al- ways come together."

"You remembered that, too?"

They ran back to the old house. Their faces were wet, their clothing soaked, but the freedom of being out together made them curiously happy.

Before the old house she paused and gripped his arm.

"What's wrong?" Scott asked.

"What is it, Noel?"

"The," pointing to a car at the curb, "is Stephen's car. I won- der..."

Scott stood frowning at the low slung car at the curb.

"You're sure it's Stephen's car?" he asked.

He was wondering, too, and fear- ing for the girl who stood beside him. He wanted to protect her from fur- ther humiliation but he knew that she little needed his protection. What- ever Noel had to face, she could face it bravely, and only he who knew her would suspect the turmoil of emotions that went on inside of her.

"Let's..."

She did not finish. Quickly she ran up the steps, opened the door and stepped inside the hall. The light under the door of Scott's room was on brilliantly and there was the sound of familiar voices within.

He caught Noel's arm.

"Whatever it is, remember you don't have to go back unless you want to. You can stay here with us as long as you like."

And with regret he thought of Noel gone back to the island... in the morning when they met for break- fast her eager, flushed face would be missing. He would not be able to look up from his work and see her come in, her eyes on him, her red mouth smiling.

"Yes," in an excited, expectant voice, "yes, I remember. Thank you, Scott. I must go and see now."

Scott opened the door and Ned and Linda, Elinor and Stephen turned to see them enter. There was a mo- ment of great expectancy when Elinor did not know whether to weep or re- joice at the sight of her sister be- side the handsome young stranger... when Scott saw no one in the room except Elinor... when Stephen's heart thumped wildly at Noel's being found.

"Darling..." cried Elinor. "I'm so glad..."

"Oh, Noel, I've missed you so, darling. But I couldn't..."

"It's been fine," said Noel with a little catch in her voice. "Really I have. You shouldn't have worried."

Elinor looked at Scott.

"Stephen came back today. He—he made Aunt Jessica see how wrong she'd been in sending Noel away. Noel, I couldn't help what she did! She sent me upstairs and told me she'd handle you alone. Dalton told her."

"Noel was never to blame for this," Scott said, looking at Elinor. "We were. We phoned her and asked if we couldn't come to the island for a swim."

"I have never," said Stephen, pass- ing cigarettes around and looking both annoyed and relieved, "heard anything as stupid as your aunt's attitude. When I came home today and heard what had happened, I saw red!"

Elinor smiled at Scott.

"So he told Aunt Jessica that you and Mr. Wilson were old college friends of his."

Stephen laughed.

"You should have seen her face! It nearly took her off her feet!" He put his hand on Scott's shoulder.

"Let's forget it, shall we? Aunt Jessica is very ashamed. She knows she has humiliated me."

"That's the point," said Noel whose clear, direct mind saw everything. "Aunt Jessica is willing to forgive me because of you, Stephen. She still feels the same about me."

Scott saw and understood at once. Aunt Jessica was forgiving Noel be- cause she did not want to antagonize Stephen, and she had no doubt had de- signs on Stephen as a husband for Elinor. That was it, of course.

He looked at the sisters and many things that had not been clear to him before were clear now. Elinor was beautiful. Her yellow hair framed her lovely face every feature of which was perfect. Elinor was very beautiful and Noel was merely handsome and brown and strong.

"Does Aunt Jessica want me back?" Noel asked simply.

"We all want you back, Noel," Elinor said sweetly. She turned to Scott. "I can't tell you how much I appreciate what you've done for her."

Elinor's slim white hand was en- closed in Scott's. Noel, confused and disturbed, could not miss her sud- den attraction for each other. Her heart ached a little seeing Scott and Elinor together. This was bound to happen. It was inevitable that they should meet. And in Elinor's beauty he would find his ideal.

It was only a second that they stood there. Noel understood. "I must be brave about this. She's my sister. I love both of them. Stephen under- stood. Elinor and Scott... one dark and one blond. I should have thought of that when I brought her here. Oh, well, there is still Noel." Linda's blue eyes took in the scene with an un- derstanding glance. "Noel forswore this. I'm sure she did. Her sister and Scott. She and I are the losers. Her sister can't hold a candle to her."

Noel laughed and said, "I love hav- ing you all together like this. Thank you, Stephen, for coming."

"But I had no one to swim with," he lamented, smiling. "A lot of peo- ple want to see you dive. I had to fetch you back."

"I've been having a fine time. It was fun. And I've been having my portrait painted by Linda. It's fin- ished, but she won't let anyone see it."

"It had better be good," said Ned. "I'm starting the cruise on Mon- day," said Stephen. "And you are all invited. Scott, have you found anyone to take your place at the business col- lege?"

"Not yet, but I will."

"I haven't made any definite plans, but we'll cruise around the Chesapeake and Potomac and pull into various little ports for supplies."

Miss Mary Newman To Wed Mr. Wilson In Greenville, S. C.

GREENVILLE, S. C., July 8.—Of social significance is the announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Mary Elizabeth Newman, of Greenville, and Laban Robbins Wilson, of Greenville, Ky., made today by Mr. and Mrs. John Leon Newman, parents of the bride-elect.

Miss Newman, the only child of her parents, is one of the most beautiful girls of Greenville, the city in which she was born and reared. She is the maternal granddaughter of the late W. B. McDaniel, one of the founders of Greenville and one of its most influential citizens. Her father, Mr. Mary Ella McDaniel, is a resident of this city and one of its most beloved women.

Miss Newman, after graduating at Greenville High school, attended Greenville Woman's College, where she was a member of the Eta Upsilon Gamma sorority and an attendant to the May Queen both years that she was a student.

In the social activities of her native city, Miss Newman has held an enviable position. She is vice president of the Junior Cotillion Club, is a gifted pianist, and has been a valued member of the Crescent Music Club of Greenville. She is a former pupil of the late Professor George Schaefer and Professor Price, of Greenville Woman's College.

Mr. Wilson is the youngest son of Dr. and Mrs. Claude Wilson, of Greenville, Ky., and is now studying at the medical school of the University of Louisville. He took his pre-medical course at Furman University, Greenville, graduating in the class of 1934. While at Furman he was a member of the S. A. E. fraternity and a member of the Phi Chi medical fraternity.

The marriage of Miss Newman and Mr. Wilson will be solemnized in the early fall. The young couple will make their home in Louisville, Ky.

Lieber-Shavin Marriage Takes Place in Shreveport, La.

SHREVEPORT, La., July 8.—The marriage of Miss Rosabel Lieber and Lieutenant Joseph B. Shavin, formerly of Atlanta, and son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Shavin, of Atlanta, took place here at high noon on June 30 in the ballroom of the Shrine clubhouse overlooking Cross lake. Before an impressive altar banked with palms and white gladioli, the impressive ceremony, performed by Dr. Abram Brill, was witnessed by members of the families. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Lieber. The following account of the marriage was culled from the Shreveport Times:

"The bride's only attendant was her aunt, Miss Mabel Lieber, who was most attractively gowned in a tailored chiffon with white accessories. She wore a shoulder bouquet. The bride entered with her father and was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Harry Fox. Her brunette beauty was enhanced by a tailored ensemble of printed chiffon in tones of blue and white, with hip-length jacket. Her hat was a sport model in felt and blue flowers. Her carmine lips were outlined with a shoulder bouquet. In a white satin cover she carried the Bible which her mother had carried on her wedding day and from which fell dainty white petals. Ribbons knotted with sprays of lilies of the valley.

After the ceremony a dinner was served at the dining room overlooking the lake. The long table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake flanked by rows of cathedral towers. The guests were seated at tables of white and satin ribbons with sprays of valley lilies were tied at the base of the candles and maidenhead fern and white flowers were scattered in profusion over the cover.

By G. A. Phillips.

NEW YORK, July 8.—(AP)—Further progress in the railroad issues dragged the corporate bond market today, and little progress was made in either direction. United States governments were a trifle higher.

After seeing up and down in a fractional range throughout the forenoon, a determined effort was made to rally utilities and industrials during the final hour but sufficient energy to carry through was lacking.

Another outburst of selling among securities of the Southern Railway alarmed other carrier obligations for the first time since this road's bonds have been under pressure and a general decline ensued.

Five separate issues of Southern bonds yielded upward of 2 points before settling. Other issues ending 1 to 2 lower included Baltimore & Ohio 6s at 75 1/2, Delaware & Hudson 6s at 75 1/2, "Katy" 5s at 42, New Haven 6s at 42 and West Shore 4s at 41 1/2.

The Associated Press average of 20 rails declined 5/8 of a point to 81 1/2 while the average of all the other groups held unchanged. Transfers aggregated $10,000,000, paid volume compared with $10,180,000 last Friday.

Leading industrials and utilities ended unchanged or within minor fractions of Saturday's final prices. Bethlehem Steel 5s at 108, United States Steel 5s at 107 1/2, International Paper 5s at 107 1/2, General Electric 5s at 107 1/2, and American Water Works 5s at 107 1/2.

Principal reaction came from government's offering of $500,000,000 notes at a new low interest rate was a mark up in prices of outstanding long-term issues, several of which made new 1935 highs during the day. Most of the treasuries ended 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 points higher and indirect obligations declined about 1/2 point.

Declines of a point or more among several issues of Italian and French government bonds was the outstanding feature of the foreign division.
